PILGRIM FELLOWSHIP

SWIMMING PARTY TOMORROW

Members of the Pilgrim Fellowship of the Alpine Community Church will go on a beach party to the Silver Strand tomorrow evening. They will leave the church at 6:30 sharp. Cost of the picnic supper will be shared by those attending.

P. F. NEEDS RECORD PLAYER

The Pilgrim Fellowship group of the Alpine Community Church needs a record player for their social evenings.

Like most youth groups they have a very limited treasury and it would be a very real help if some kind Alpine citizen has or knows of a record player that can be donated. Please contact Elmer Cooke, advisor, HI 5-2123. Thanks.

WHY THEY QUIT

Few people realize how many students quit before they complete high school. The rate for the Grossmont District is lower than for most areas but even here about 15% are lost. Out of 402 dropouts early marriage accounted for 119; work, 102; and lack of interest, 74. Under present conditions these young people are going into the battle of life with unnecessary handicaps.

This Nation Under God

It should never be forgotten that our country is a land of freedom and opportunity because men of great faith believed enough in Nature and Nature's God to trust God and man. In a time when no republic of free men had ever yet existed our forefathers pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor in perfect confidence that the God in whom they trusted would not fail them.

They were not perfect; like men of today they made mistakes and were humanly selfish yet they bequeathed an unparalleled heritage to us and to the generations that are yet to come.

Certainly our concepts change and today we think about our lives, the world about us, and religion itself in ways that our forefathers could not have imagined. But one thing we must take increasing care to develop in ourselves and in our children is a vivid personal realization of God as the powerful fact of our lives.

Every man who would be a business success, every woman who wishes peace of mind, a happy home and children and every person who would be a good citizen should deliberately seek both for his own good and for the good of those around him to find a positive answer to a vivid personal religion.

Only when men as fathers sit down with their children and proudly teach the best of the truth that they have learned by careful personal search will our heritage of freedom and prosperity be safe. No school or church can do more than help. For God and nature have decreed that the bulwarks of liberty are built at parents' knees.

Rev. Edgar S. Welty

Congress of the United States

House of Representatives

GREETINGS FROM YOUR CONGRESSMAN
In looking back on the session, we can be tremendously grateful for the treatment accorded San Diego by the 86th Congress.

One of the most far-reaching items that won final approval this year was the funding of the dredging program for Forrestal class aircraft carriers. This is a 4 1/2 million dollar item to dredge the harbor deep enough for the largest ships afloat. This will mean increased commercial potential as well as the more obvious military advantage of being able to home port the newest supercarriers. An added benefit will be extra land fill on the waterfront opposite Lindberge Field.

The submarine pier out beyond Ballast Point was approved and funded, after a legislative hassle that looked pretty serious for a while. This pier will serve to tie down the submarine squadrons now moored in the main channel of the harbor.

Seawater plant off again on again: After a rather disappointing move by the Interior Department to look elsewhere for a site for the saline water conversion plant that had been assigned to San Diego, we appealed to Secretary Seaton for reconsideration. A firm decision was finally made to stick to Point Loma, come anything or High Water. There is still a remote possibility that the Atomic Energy Commission can come up with an acceptable reactor that will meet Navy tolerance specifications. But despite what decision develops on this aspect, the plant will stay in San Diego. That's for sure! Regular power sources can be used just as well as atomic energy, the experts say. The important thing is to get the plant built and to try out the process to see if this is indeed the answer to Southern California's water problem.

Judicial bill still alive: My bill to create a new judicial district for San Diego and Imperial counties almost got acted upon closing night, until Congress ran out of steam. It is included in the judgeship bill which will be brought up when we return in August. This will give tremendous stature to San Diego as no new judicial districts have been created since the twenties. Our importance as a center of Federal activity was the most telling argument we used in getting this through the Judiciary Committee. Much credit is Money raised will be used to buy a steel tennis net for the court and other equipment. due local Bar Association representatives, spearheaded by Sherwood Roberts, who persistently pressed for favorable action on this legislation.

Personal note: Our third grandson arrived June 30th, and that means a lot more baby-sitting for Jean and me. He's a happy little guy, named Richard Carlton Hudson, and I'm looking forward to getting acquainted soon.

Sincerely,

Bob Wilson
Member of Congress

He will specialize in residential, commercial, and remodeling work. He has been active in construction since high school days.

They are remodeling and enlarging their home and they plan construction soon on another house on the property.

THEY'D GROW IN A BLAST FURNACE

You'd have to look long and hard to find a climate too hot for oleanders. Most members of the California Association of Nurserymen are convinced that these tough customers would grow in a blast furnace.

Do you doubt it? Then hop in a car and ride up or down our state. Oleanders have been widely used to landscape freeways in some of our hottest counties, where they show their cheerful faces to one and all.

It is heat, in fact, which makes an oleander thrive. They are sparse bloomers in some of our coastal climates. Don't shy away from them if you garden in a fog belt, however, since the foliage itself is worth growing for screens and hedges.

At their best, oleanders are real eye-catchers. They are best used in hedges, rows, along a drive or fronting the road on a country property. Their value as single specimen shrubs, however, is traditional to California, and the many different varieties enhance their worth for this use.

If pink is your color, try Pink Beauty or Seely Pink, both of them large singles in good clear pink. Mrs. Roeding is a salmon pink oleander with double flowers—very popular. The best white is Sister Agnes, a single, while the reds include Compte Barthelmy, a double, and Jannoch, a single. The rose-red oleander that gets such a big play in all areas is the single variety, Cherry Ripe.

To a variety they are all robust bloomers, even under drought conditions. So pick your favorite colors and plant them in full knowledge that your investment will pay a maximum dividend with a minimum of attention. Botanically, oleanders are Nerium oleander.

No man is rich whose expenditures exceed his means, and no one is poor whose incomings exceed his outgoings.

1. Annuals are the answer to post-vacation bare spots in the garden. Many are already a-bloom in nursery flats.
  2. If you leave your garden in a friend's care, simplify his watering chores by moving all potted and tubbed plants to one area.
  3. Dig early-blooming gladiolus when tops dry off. Cut off the dead stalks and dust the corms with insecticide before storing in a cool, dry place.

  5. Select and set out bearded iris this month. Give them sun-full time in coastal areas, at least half-time inland.
