PINE VALLEY FIRE DEPARTMENT

In its 14th year of continuous operation, the Pine Valley Fire Department is a well organized, smoothly functioning unit with emphasis on fire prevention. "We have a program," said Chief John Pingley, "which has kept our fires to a minimum. We have more calls for First Aid work and the resuscitator, than for fires these days."

The department began operation with one war surplus truck purchased by subscription. In 1955 they raised enough money to buy a 325 gallon pumper. In 1960 they cannibalized the original truck and built a new one which became their number two fire engine, a 360 gallon pumper. In addition to the two big engines, the department has a 3/4-ton utility pick-up truck which is used extensively in first aid work.

Each Monday evening from 7 to 9 is devoted to training for the volunteer firemen. The first hour is spent in classroom, blackboard work, and the second in learning to handle the equipment, the Chief said.

The organization is made up of two captains, one for each engine, and four men for each captain. In addition to this crew of 10, there are four radio operators who handle the three radio circuits, which monitor the California Highway Patrol; the U. S. Forest Service, and the Pine Valley Fire Department. The Chief has a radio in his home, as have each of the captains, where they may be reached at any time. The captains are Ed Orbom and Louis Perna. Firemen are R. T. Hadley, Nathan Morse, Conrad Mulhauser, Donald Turnbull, Dale Gowdy, William Russell, Roy Williams, Jerry Bilyeu and Albert Kerrick.

The Fire Station is an attractive sturdy building with a well appointed office, a small kitchen, a sleeping room, rest room, storage space, and office for a deputy sheriff. On the walls of the Fire Department's office are high efficiency maps, one a fire-bearing check map radiating from the four principle lookouts in the district, and one illuminated one for the immediate vicinity showing the location of the 34 small fire hydrants in the village and the four main large hydrants. Signals flash from these locations showing at any time of fire, where the trucks are working.

Three of the crew are Red Cross first aid instructors; five have advanced Red Cross first aid cards, and four have standard first aid cards, as well as two junior members with the standard cards.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES

Did you know that Campo once hold this country's record for rainfall? On August 12, 1891, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau in San Diego, 11 inches of rain fell in Campo in 80 minutes. The downpour was so rapid and violent that it washed away a good bit of the town including the blacksmith shop. Even the big heavy anvil was carried off in the mighty rush of the water.

Recent sales of Alpine property have old-timers murmuring in amazement. They say that 30 years ago the land where Hinkle's store now stands was traded for a gasoline pump and tank, and the land opposite it, the subdivision on the hill across Highway 80, all seven acres of it, was traded for a grand piano.

They say there's an old well under the Log Cabin that used to be the town pump where horses were watered and travelers stopped to drink and fill their canteens in the early days.

Backyard Swim Program Cancelled

According to Mrs. A. R. White, the backyard swim program which was being planned for this summer has had to be cancelled due to a lack of enough persons interested and willing to take the course for instructors.

It is unfortunate, Mrs. White states, that this situation exists as there were approximately 80 children interested in the course, and this program could have been of great benefit in teaching them the necessary methods of water safety.

The committee on this program would like to express their thanks to those who were willing to lead, and to Shadyrock Ranch and Willow Glen Farm for their splendid cooperation in donating the use of their pools.

In Appreciation

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Liebert and family wish to acknowledge and express their heartfelt appreciation and thanks to all the many friends for their kindness and expression of condolence received in the loss of their son and brother.

All parents, family and friends of the 4H are cordially invited to attend.

Alpine Chatter

Last Friday night, Mrs. Harold Johnson, "Connie" to her many friends in the Alpine Woman's Club, fell in the Aero Drive-In theatre and hit her head against a concrete wall. She was taken to El Cajon Valley emergency hospital with severe lacerations of the left eyebrow. The doctor rushed to her aid and put six stitches in the wound and dressed her in a dramatic turban. Next day the turban came off and the wound is healing nicely.

"It's not too painful," Connie said Saturday, "but my eye's still swollen shut."

The Law Of Relativity

Modern scientists state that everything in the universe is relative; such as, time, space, speed, weight, etc. In the development of our modern civilization, relativity enters into many of its phases, and the success or failure of many enterprises and projects depends to a large extent on their relativity to other factors that are either good or bad; such as, the distance from one location to another location has a bearing on the relationship of the two locations.

The State Highway has just completed a link in the Freeway connecting Alpine to San Diego, and while the distance in miles is still the same between these two communities, they are now relatively closer together by an interval of time than they were before this section was open to travel.

A few days ago a representative of the State Highway Department stated that his organization was planning the Freeways in San Diego County based on their estimate that by the year 1980 the metropolitan area would extend from Camp Pendleton to the Mexican border, and from the ocean East to Fallbrook, Vista, Ramona and Descanso Junction, and would contain at least two million inhabitants.

Alpine is well within this geographical area and would be served by the network of Freeways now being planned by the State Highway Department. It has been the policy of this Department to plan and construct Freeways as they are required by the development of areas, and if the future growth in the Alpine and surrounding areas is as anticipated, it should not be too long before the Freeway system is extended to our community.

Each extension of the Freeway system will bring us relatively closer to San Diego and tend to bring about changes in our community which we may not like unless we do an orderly job of planning in the near future.

This letter was received by Lorissa Galloway and passed on for the readers to share. In part, it follows:

Dear Lorissa:

Have thought of you folks so many times lately for Hazel Gibb has sent me three or four copies of the Alpine Echo with Neil's articles. It's nice to read about the old times, names and places that are gone and live only on our memories. I surely have enjoyed them and thank Neil for writing them.

Never imagined I would live to see Colorado river water up in Alpine hills, or rather, that it would ever be there, but I'll be looking for it when I get back.

Funeral Rites For Harold Liebert

Funeral services were conducted Thursday, April 19, 1962, in King City, California, for Harold Conrad Liebert, aged 60 years. Interment was in King City cemetery.

Mr. Liebert died Monday, April 16, 1962, in a train-automobile accident. Besides his widow, Emma, Mr. Liebert is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Liebert of Alpine, a daughter Mrs. Virginia Brandon of Paso Robles, and four brothers: Laurence, of El Centro; Joe of San Jose; Tom of Brawley and Lt. Wayne Liebert of San Francisco; and one sister, Mrs. Dorothy Medvigy of Onxard.

Before going to King City in 1952, to direct Maggio's Field Operation, Mr. Liebert, a native of Guymon, Oklahoma, had built a reputation as an outstanding crop superintendent. He was a friend of the ranchers, admired and respected by them. In 1909, Harold went to Imperial Valley with his parents and brothers and settled in the Westside district area. He attended school there, and began his agricultural career early on the family ranch. In later years Harold joined the Imperial County Agricultural Department as an Inspector and worked with the department for 15 years. He became Senior Inspector, which position he held until resigning to take the position with the Joseph Maggio Company at King City.

Mr. Liebert's employer, Carl Maggio, in a statement to the Press, had this to say, "Harold's ability in his chosen vocation was unsurpassed, and besides this, he was a gentleman in every respect, a great friend, and invaluable asset to our organization. He will be greatly missed by us all."

pine Woman's Club to have this office brought to us." There are several large clubs in the Southern District. La Mesa alone has 562 members. The Southern District represents some 2,400 club-women.

Attending the election and installation in Coronado, were, besides Mrs. Colby, Mrs. Mace Bratt, Mrs. H. H. Latham, Mrs. Harold Johnson, Mrs. Ed Orbom, Mrs. Rennie Hollett, Mrs. E. Sachse, Mrs. Dallas Lore, Mrs. G. D. Hogard, Mrs. Marcus Schaeffer, Mrs. L. E. Peterson, Mrs. Willard Hays and Mrs. Orville Palmer.

On May 3rd Mrs. Colby will give a luncheon at her home for Southern District's out-going Executive Committee and the incoming Executive Committee, some 18 ladies in all. At this time plans will be made for the entire year, dates set and chairmen appointed.

Reciprocity Tea Presents Musicians

Reciprocity day at the Alpine Woman's Club was greatly enjoyed by a capacity crowd. Among other clubs sending representatives were El Cajon, La Mesa, Spring Valley, Lemon Grove, Lakeside, Bostonia and Julian.

After a brief business meeting conducted by President, Mrs. Mace Bratt, Mrs. Harry Colby introduced the entertainment. Three outstanding musicians gave of their talent to make this program a memorable one.

Alice Del Nero, pianist, of Spring Valley, who modestly calls herself a housewife, played with concert mastery. Mrs. Del Nero was educated at Julliard School of Music in New York City and Boston University Music School. She also accompanied lovely soprano, Carol Grant, of La Mesa, whose husband is pastor of the La Mesa Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Grant has an exceptionally fine clear voice and her songs were ideal for a spring afternoon. The third artist was tenor Arthur Bunch, a music major at San Diego State College, whose home is Julian. He was accompanied by Shirley Williams, also a State student. Both young people performed charmingly.

Hostesses for the delicious tea were Mrs. Lars Carlson and Mrs. James Ansell, whose committee was Mrs. Clarence Stearns, Mrs. Basil Spears, Mrs. Jeannette Hinkel, and Mrs. Tom Hill, Sr.

Kiwanis Easter Breakfast Well Attended

The 7th annual Easter Breakfast given by the Alpine Kiwanis Club Sunday morning, April 22nd at the Youth Center, was a big success, well attended by Kiwanis members, their families and friends from all over the community as well as San Diego visitors. The tables for eight were filled many times during the serving hours, 8 to 11.

Chairman of the affair was Kiwanis member Joe Ellingson. Hosting was amiable President Bob Wilson, while the cooks dispensing the delicious hot cakes, bacon, eggs, and coffee from the big hot stove in the kitchen were: Ray Partridge, Ben Cerveny, Carl Schweiss, Walling Wallingham, Donald Muller, Bud Cooper, Earl Woodall, Jack Hoistad (dish-washer); Phil Hall, Carmel Manuel, and Carl Mattison. John Reynolds, ticket chairman, was on the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Landt, sponsors and leaders of the 4H Club girls and boys, had charge of the young people who served and cleared the tables. Girls serving the hungry guests were Jane Reabold, Elaine Earickson, Linda Lou Nichols, Kathy Blankenship, Randa Adams, Lola Jones, Dona Schwenk, Malinda Roth, Dianne Pekary and Cindy Byers. Boys acting as clean-up crew were: Calvin, Roger, and Charles Jerney, Steven Woodall, Tommy Judd and Edward Schwenk.

It was a very nice looking crowd indeed, some breakfasting before church and some after, and all dressed in Easter best.

April

An April sun is mild and pale
 And April air is like a veil
 That's very thin and barely hides
 The new spring green on far hillsides.

The earth is moist and softly warm,
 The blossoms, promises without form.
 For April is a gentle time
 And life flows like a pleasing rhyme.

Gamma Gamma Founders Day

The Gamma Gamma Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority would like to announce its Founders Day on May 1st. Twenty-five years ago this sorority was started in California and 10 years ago this chapter was started with 22 members.

Governor Brown has said, "As Governor, it is a pleasure to note that May 1st represents the founding of your sorority, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, International.

"In its 25 years of service in California, E S A has compiled an enviable and distinguished record of community service.

"I join with Californians everywhere in saluting E. S. A. and all of its members on a great job in many worthy causes."

The purpose of our sorority is educational, philanthropic, and social. This year, our philanthropic project has been to help the Angels Unaware Mentally Retarded School in El Cajon. We raised money for this by our summer fashion show, coffees, and dances. The State philanthropy is Angel View Crippled Children's Foundation in Desert Hot Springs. We helped to support this Foundation. As part of Alpine, we helped to support the Youth Center, the New March of Dimes, and the Red Cross. Our educational program theme of spiritual, mental, and physical fitness was directed by Elsie Hoffman.

This year's officers have presented an interesting year for its members, their husbands, and guests. The succeeding officers should have a happy and profitable year ahead with the plans that have been made to start this summer.

The men are often called to highway accidents and emergencies in the nearby recreation areas. Their quick, skilled action has saved many lives.

Chief Pingley is a retired U. S. Navy veteran who has received, since his retirement, three separate permanent decorations for meritorious service during World War Two. The first was as commanding officer of the U.S.S. Munsee in operation against enemy Japanese forces in the Pacific Ocean area in October, 1944; the second, in the same year, was for fighting a fire on a U. S. ship while commander of U. S. Tugboat, and the third as commanding officer of a Fleet tug in action against Japanese forces during the assault on Iwo Jima and Okinawa from February to May, 1945.

The Pine Valley Fire Department will present its second annual Fireman's Ball on Saturday evening, May 5th, in the Pine Valley Clubhouse. It will be a festive occasion with formal dress and a queen to be crowned at the height of the festivities. The public is invited and tickets may be purchased from the firemen.

A great big welcome to Henry and Mildred (Tootsie) Kendricks, owners and operators of our freshly painted, brightly lighted, air-conditioned, well stocked store. What a pleasure to walk in and note the orderly arrangements, the well organized refrigerated cases all planned much like a super-market. And in a way it is for this is one of the Lucky Stores.

It certainly is a far cry from the building as it was 25-30 years ago. Remember the old ornate mahogany, mirrored backbar and counter; the soda fountain syrup dispensers that never worked; the counter stacked with dozens of miscellaneous items from magazines to snuff. An old wood stove in the center of the store. A few single light bulbs hanging from the ceiling. Jimmy Russell's hearty greetings. The only phone in the valley was at the store, and Jim knew all the news, the coming and going of the week-end residents (there were less than a dozen year-round residents then.) He even had keys to most of the houses—just in case someone came up and left his house key 50 or 60 miles away. A striking example of the old and new way of life.

The O'Marr's stone wall has been partly knocked down again by a reckless driver and their driveway filled with bales of hay, spilling over onto Highway 80 and Laguna Trail. Several cars lined up, the other morning, until the bales could be pulled out of the way to let us through. Some of the drivers were late for work and some of our valley horsemen gathered up the loose hay for their own use.

Cynthia Irvine riding at Alpine Children's Horse Show April 18, 1962

Junior Horse Show At Elm Tree Farm

Wednesday, April 18, was the date of a special horse show presented by two enterprising young Alpine ladies named Cynthia Irvine and Kathy Hermstead, who used the ring at Elm Tree Farm for the event.

The show was for Alpine children only, and was judged by Dick Fordyce, Bill Ingals, Roy McClinton, and Pat Eggleston Thompson, with Clark Irvine as Timer.

There were seven events and the Grand Entry. Valuable assistance was given by Alice Irvine whose three daughters all participated. Mrs. Irvine donated a lovely cake and a nice big Easter basket, selling chances on both. The cake was won by Hazel Rose and the Easter basket by Mrs. Tom Casey. Carl McCall brought his tractor and graded the track before the race, making it weed free and smooth for the young riders.

All trophies were donated by Miss Margaret Lowthian.

A second show is planned by the young crowd for the week after school is out.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW

The Bailey Family came to Alpine some 18 years ago when Claude and Paul were small. The boys started first grade at the Alpine School and finished their grade school days there, going on to Grossmont High and thence to one year at San Diego State. From there they went to Los Angeles City College where they finished five years' work in three years. At the time of their graduation they were written up in the newspapers for their excellent scholastic standing and the fact that they were the only two of the original enrollment who started and finished together. Both boys graduated with degrees in Business, Claude as a Certified Public Accountant, and Paul in Business Administration.

After college, Claude and Paul spent their two years in the armed service before beginning their careers. Claude is now temporarily established with a friend as a car dealer, while working as CPA with private accounts in his extra time. He plans soon to leave the present business and establish his own CPA firm in San Francisco. Claude has not yet married.

Paul married an Alpine girl, Joan Butts, formerly of the Willows, and lives with his family at Whittier where he is the youngest manager of one of the largest Thrifty Drug Stores in that company's chain. The young Baileys have three lovely little daughters ages 5, 3 and 2; Debra, Denise and Dianne. Before taking over management of the Thrifty store, Paul was circulation manager for the Beverly Hills Citizen. He and his wife have just purchased a lovely new home.

Carmen, their pretty mother, is justly proud of her two sons. Their father died seven years ago and a couple of years later she and Jack Hoistad were married. He has the Alpine Trucking firm. Jack's son, Bill, who also spent some of his school days in Alpine, is now living in New York City.

Carmen says, "Though we didn't move to Alpine until 1944, we had been around the vicinity, off and on, for several years looking for a climate to help Claude's asthma. We finally decided that Alpine was the ideal spot. The boys still call Alpine home, and wish they could live closer."

Carmen still runs Bailey's Cafe, which many of Alpine's present young marrieds will remember as an unofficial Youth Center. Before there was any Youth Center, Carmen closed her cafe on Friday evenings and let the kids dance to the record player and furnished them free cokes and a safe meeting place. Though their sons are now grown and gone, Carmen and Jack still take an active interest in the local Youth Center. They are also active and popular members of other civic organizations. Carmen is a long time Woman's Club member, and Jack a Kiwanis and Chamber of Commerce worker. Every civic activity will find these people present, and helping.

Kiwanis Club Host To 4H Club

The Alpine Kiwanis Club meeting today will be the annual meeting at which the Club is host to the Alpine 4H Club members. The 4H members and leaders will be honored at this meeting for the activities which they have entered into during the past year.

At their next meeting on May 3rd, the Alpine Kiwanis Club will have as their inter-club guest members of the College Area Kiwanis Club who will furnish the program.

A greeting from Marge and Herb Moore from Willits. The Moores operated the old Pine Valley Inn for many years and were among the instigators of our Pine Valley Horse Show, a show that started with a few youngsters one Sunday afternoon. This show grew to be of such proportions that it took months of work and planning to put on and ran two full days for 12 years.

See you at the Firemen's Ball, May 5th. Come by the refreshment table and say hello.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

The Old Timer

BY NIEL GALLOWAY

I am now going to write about one of the cattle drives I promised you. First, I forgot about two of the Alpine storekeepers. One was John Wilkinson; the other was Simmons. So you see over the years there were quite a lot of storekeepers. There was a grocery store where the Alpine Cleaners are. That building was built by S. M. Marshall. Coleman was one of the keepers of that store. He passed on, then there was Caldwell. He ran the Empire Market, and there is now Blankenship.

Now, above the Willows where I left off last week. Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Simpson lived north of the Willows. They lived there many years. They both passed on not too long ago. Then we come to the Darnells. They came here in 1922. They had three children, Balford, Isobel and Margery. Balford was in with Butler for several years drilling wells. Since that he has been interested in mines all over South America. One daughter, Isabel, lives in Alpine and runs a hobby shop. I think it would be a very good idea to prod Balford and get him to write about his experiences in South America. It should be most interesting. (The Echo invited him to do this some time ago. Editor).

The father, Rex Darnell, built several cottages to rent. They sold this property not too long ago. Mrs. Darnell is still a spry young thing of 81 summers. She is fortunate in having most of her children living near her.

Next is the Poplars. It was owned by the Anderson brothers who owned and operated the San Diego Steam Laundry in San Diego for many years. One of them had a son, we always called Dutch. He was an alcoholic. Too bad. These people should not be condemned. When it gets them, very few can abstain from it. I have known a few that had will power enough to completely abstain from it. They should be commended for that. The Anderson family all died some time ago.

A little further on, this is on the old Viejas grade road in the Viejas Valley, was the Viejas school, where the Walkers and McNetts went to school. When it was consolidated with Alpine was when the school troubles began. From then on we had school buses. There was a civil engineer who engineered the present Alpine. He had a crippled girl he wanted hauled to school. So he talked up the consolidated school to get that bus service. When the road was finished, he left. He was near retirement anyway. No taxpayer has ever got out of that deal, since it keeps rolling like a snowball down hill getting bigger all the time. There are now several houses near where the Viejas school stood. S. M. Marshall bought the old schoolhouse and tore it down for the lumber.

Next I come to what I called the Campbell place. It was the first house on the left after you passed the school. My memory is vague on Campbell. There was another family after them. They had a shepherd dog that used to go to the road every day when the mail stage came through, pick up the mail sack and when it was heavy, toss it across her shoulder and carry it on her back. Those people were the Gregorays. Some gypsies came along one day and Gregory traded them the dog for a sack of rolled barley. I tried to buy her from Gregory, but couldn't make a deal.

Before the 1916 flood, the field where the road makes the sharp turn north used to be in alfalfa. That valley had a lot of damp land before the flood made that deep hole and drained most of the valley. It never was the same after that. There had been quite a few owners. I will mention the few I knew. Gregory, Campbell, Havermail, Wellington, Brawley, Letterman, Erner Allen. Roscoe Porter owned the Golden West Ranch, seems to me. Roscoe Porter was a very prominent man in San Diego; he passed on a long time ago. Montague Brabazon owns what I knew as the Brawley ranch. When I came here Douglas Ogden owned most of it. He bought several ranches in there and consolidated them all into one large cattle ranch. Douglas was always a good friend of mine clear up until he died. He was a queer individual. If he liked you, he liked you, if not you sure knew it. When he was young he used to do a lot of wild things. Among them was lassoing the smoke stacks of the San Diego Cuyamaca and Eastern railroad locomotives at Lakeside, or perhaps it was El Cajon.

He lived at the entrance to the Los Canajos Indian Reservation. The Indians could borrow some farm machinery from him; the whites couldn't. I asked him, how come. He said, "If an Indian breaks it, he tells me, and just as soon as he gets the money he fixes it. The whites bring it back broken and say nothing." During World War II, I bought 50 sheep to raise wool for the soldiers. They were old sheep with bad teeth. After they raised some lambs, I tried to fatten them. I had fed them for about 60 days. Douglas came along as he often did; he asked me if they were getting fat. I said no. He wanted to know why. No teeth, I said. He grinned and said, "You know, I bought one of them hammer mills that will grind hay so they will not have to chew it." He still had it at the Implement Dealers, brand new. He told me to go get it. Well, I did. I got them all fat, but three and it cost me $1.75 apiece more to fatten them than they sold for. During the war the wool was worth 40 cents a pound. After the war was over the Government dumped their wool and it went down to 6 cents and broke all the sheep men in the United States.

I better get back to my cattle. At that time Ogden had the general run of longhorn cattle. They were long-legged and as I have said before, it took a good horse to outrun one. The Viejas valley was only seven or eight miles from here so they only stopped for a short rest. They used to drive them all the way to Charlie Hardy's packing house in Old Town, San Diego. Hardy sent out men to meet them the night before they got to the packing house to see they did not fill them up with water just before they was weighed.

I will continue this Viejas Valley writing next time. There is too much for one time. See you all next week.

Proper Use Of Driving Signals

"Too many motorists are either ignoring or improperly using required driving signals," California Highway Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden declared today.

"The only means available for communicating with other drivers or pedestrians sharing the roadways are stop lights, directional or arm signals, the horn, and the manner and position in which your vehicle is operated.

"Modern driving conditions demand that each motorist use appropriate signals to indicate an impending change in direction or

Alpine Gardener

Portable Plantings

By JEAN McCULLOUGH

Now that most of the spring bulbs such as daffodils, narcissus, and tulips around Alpine have finished blooming, you may want to cut down their foliage to make way for something else, but don't do it. That foliage should be watered lightly as long as it looks green—a matter of a few weeks or a month, whether in pots or in the ground. That foliage is what helps to build up nourishment to start making the bloom for next year. Just leave the foliage until it dies down, but if you want to be really neat, take small bunches of the foliage and braid them together as they begin to wilt.

You can leave the bulbs in pots for two years and sometimes longer if in the ground. Now this time of year your portable plantings will come in real handy. Just bring your beautiful Pelargoniums and geraniums to the fore to put on their show in place of the potted lillies that you now retire to the background. What a show the lovely flowering geranium varieties will make! There are dozens of varieties of each of these to put in front of bloomed out plants or to fill in a gap somewhere in your garden or patio.

Coleus, too, make ideal potted plants, but most of these like partial shade. They come in an endless variety of color combinations. Be generous in watering the coleus. They prefer rather acid soil.

Any number of small annuals are suitable for pot growing to make gay spots of color to be moved anywhere you choose indoors or out. Alyssum, lobelia, azuratum, petunias. Have lots of petunias ruffled or plain. They are hardy and fragrant and very pleasant to see. Dusty Miller makes a nice contrast to your darker foliage. And why not get some fragrant herbs? They are nice for both patio and kitchen.

Next time we'll discuss care of plants now growing through the summer months.

Horse Show Committees Named

At a meeting held last Friday evening of the Alpine Viejas Days Annual Horse Show group, General Chairman Bruce McKie appointed a number of Special Committees. Mr. Doug Fordyce was named Chairman of the Program Advertising Committee, with Paul Brock, T. N. "Red" Andrews and Auren Pierce as Committee members.

Mr. H. B. Rost was appointed Publicity Chairman for the San Diego City area, and E. L. Freeland the Publicity Chairman for the East County area.

Show Manager Norman Foster submitted his proposed schedule of classes for the Show which were unanimously approved as offering something for everyone.

Chairman McKie states that the Program Advertising Committee will start their solicitation program immediately and the cooperation of the people of the community will be appreciated.

deceleration, and such signal, to be effective, must be clear and easily understood," the Commissioner added.

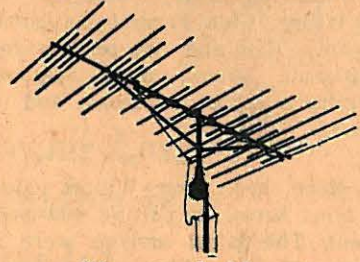

"The law requires a continuous signal during the last 100 feet before turning left or right. Beyond this, however, it also forbids a change in direction upon a roadway until it may be accomplished with safety.

"Motorists who fail to use proper signals are not only subject to arrest, but are also contributing heavily to the frustrations of everyday driving," he concluded.
