Last Friday 40 boys spent the day at Hobart House in Pine Valley. They are students of the Lower School, seventh and eighth grades, of the San Miguel School, an Episcopal college preparatory school for boys on Linda Vista Road in San Diego.

The occasion was the second annual picnic and swimming party held for these grades at Hobart House. The boys arrived from San Diego at 11 a.m. and spent the next four hours swimming, playing shuffleboard and ping-pong, and enjoying a fried chicken lunch which was furnished by the Mothers Club of the school and by Hobart House. The weather was perfect for this type of out-

INTIMATE GLIMPSES

By BEA LA FORCE

Natural springs of good fresh water have always been regarded with some degree of reverence by people everywhere. In desert areas cool water rising from the earth has inspired worship in countless hearts and there is something uniquely sad about a dried up spring, a one time oasis for men and animals that has ceased to be this place of rest and refreshment. Such springs are usually older than any written record, older than any man's memory, but remembered in the blood of wild animals whose ancestors drank from them.

Not so long ago many such springs flowed freely in the mountains here and in the desert just beyond. Some few remain, but most of them have dried up as they seem to do with close settlement of the regions containing them. Until very recent times an ancient spring welled up and ran over abundantly the year round on what was first called, nearly a hundred years ago, the Viejas

Kiwanis To Hear Speaker From Turkey

Kiwanians will be fortunate this week to have as their speaker, a Turkish national, Usuf Morgen (who likes to be called Joe Morgan while in America), who will speak and show pictures of Turkey. Mr. Morgen is in this country studying irrigation systems and is presently engaged in this activity in Imperial Valley.

Last week's meeting was highly educational in terms of free world security. Col. Karl Tuttle gave a new concept of NATO and what it meant in terms of protection for the free world.

Due to the Memorial Day holiday, no meeting will be held by the Kiwanis Club, May 30. However, a round table will be held at Bob's Texaco Station.

Tree Contest Winners Announced Last Week

The winners in the Guess the Age of the Tree Contest sponsored by the Log Cabin Cafe for the benefit of the Alpine Junior Baseball Association were drawn last Friday evening.

The first prize of a Packard-Bell nine-transistor radio was won by the Alpine Junior Baseball Association who guessed the tree to be 207 years old. This was the exact age according to Mr. Ray Caho of Grindle and Heinkel, tree service contractors of San Diego. On Thursday, Mr. Caho removed a core from the trunk of the tree and computed the age based on the number of years of growth as shown by the rings.

Margie Hem of Alpine was the winner of second prize which was a ham with a guess of 206. The third prize of a turkey was won by Marvin Chynoweth who guessed 208. Red Andrews with a guess of 205 won fourth prize which was

After morning mass, the crowd gathered at the Social Club for a nice luncheon then the procession formed for the parade to the church about half a mile away. The road winds through the fields in the sunshine to the oak grove where the church is situated. Led by a tall young man carrying the large crucifix, the procession follows with two other young men carrying the flags. Clyde Tesam and Abel Pico; then Altar Boys Anthony Muller, Harold Cristman, Samuel Aboys, Patrick Carrizosa and Robert Grijalva jr.

Entertained By The U.S. Navy

Mrs. Nyle (Bev.) Nation and her son, Kenny, age 11 were guests of Mr. Nation aboard his ship, the aircraft carrier, USS Oriskany, last Saturday when they joined other dependents of Navy men for the annual Family Day Cruise.

Beginning at 7:30 a.m., when they boarded the ship at San Diego, the lucky guests with their hosts were taken on a trip out to sea during which they were royally entertained and fed. Breakfast was served from 8 to 10 and dinner from 11 to 4 and it was a fine bill of fare, says Bev.

Entertainment included a tour of the ship, an airshow, with jets landing and taking off, a mock bombing by jets, and a high-line transfer between the USS Oriskany and the USS Mahan another aircraft carrier with which they rendezvoused at sea. There was a four-piece band which played for dancing on the hangar deck. Kenny was thrilled to be able to see and handle the weapons used by Marines who came on board in camouflaged uniforms and demonstrated the weapons which included a bazooka, or rocket launcher. All in all it was a big wonderful outing to be remembered with pleasure for a long time.

PHILLIP G. WALLAN

Civilian To Sailor

Philip G. Wallan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Wallan of South Grade Road, Alpine, signed on the dotted line this week for the U. S. Navy's Excelerated Training Program, which means Philip will take his 80 days boot training in what normally takes six to nine months to accomplish. The program is based on the individual and how hard he studies. When the boot training is completed, the men are eligible for a rating and placed in the Reserves.

Philip will officially report for his orders, June 16 after his graduation from El Capitan High School.

In this excelerated program, the men are deferred for three years after taking basic training which enables them to further their education, if desired. After serving two years of active duty, they are placed on one-year stand-by in the Reserves.

Philip has been raised in the Alpine area, attending local schools. His many friends wish him good luck and success in his new endeavor.

Dehesa Boy Wins Scholarship Award

It's In The Library

By ELIZABETH C. WEST

Two new books with similar titles but with different emphasis await the borrower at the Alpine Library. "The Quality of Murder," 300 years of true crime, edited by Anthony Boucher—will interest mystery readers. "The Quality of Mercy" by Margaret Culkin Banning, author of 22 other novels, will interest those who may like to read about the three different ways, three generations of the same family, help those less fortunate.

The wild flower exhibit on the special shelf by the door of the library has overflowed to the desk and the top of the filing cabinet. Many thanks to Mrs. Joan Crossthwaite, Mrs. Fern Latham and Mrs. Grace Wilcox for sharing the following—balsam root, blue eyed grass, Brodiaea minor, elderberry, mariposa lillies, miners lettuce, windmill pink, etc. Library hours are, Tuesday and Thursday, 1 to 5—Saturdays, 10 to 2—drop in for a visit—there are books and magazines for all ages.

Nothing distributes wealth like taxation and a large family.

Happy Birthday For Mike

A real fun birthday party was held this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Sansoucie of Alpine Terrace, Alpine. A group of eager party goers met Monday evening for a barbecue complete with hot dogs and all the trimmings out in the yard of the Sansoucie home.

With Mr. Sansoucie in the position of umpire, the boys enjoyed a rousing game of baseball. The honoree received many interesting birthday gifts for this happy celebration and his many guests returned home completely stuffed with goodies traditional to making Mike's party a complete success.

Alpiner Returns From U.S. Tour

Mr. George J. Ziegler of Tavern Road returned this week from a bus tour of the entire United States.

He started from Alpine at the Greyhound Bus station on Wednesday, April 10th, for his six-week trip. His route took him through Houston to New Orleans, from there along the Gulf coast through Florida to Key West. From Key West he traveled up the entire Eastern Coast to Bangor, Maine.

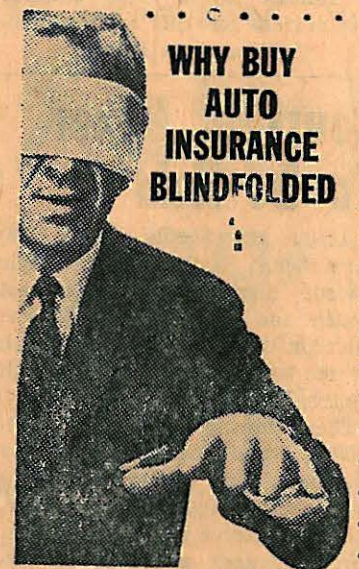

A four-day stopover in Washington, D. C., to see the sights and visit friends, and a day spent with a daughter in Monroe, New York, were highlights of this stage of his travels.

From Maine, Mr. Ziegler traveled across to Buffalo, New York. On a short layover there he took time to call one of Albert Alder's daughters who lives on Grande Island. Mr. Alder, the Alpine travel agent, had helped Mr. Ziegler plan his trip, so he returned the favor by making this phone call.

After leaving Buffalo the route was through Canada on the North Shore of Lake Erie, thence to Detroit, across the northern states to Seattle, Washington. Down the coast to San Francisco, and then a zig-zag through Salt Lake City through Denver to Kansas City. From Kansas City he started on the last lap on his way home to Alpine.

On the whole trip, Mr. Ziegler made a total of 38 stopovers, some for just overnight, and some for a day or so. All in all, he had a wonderful time and saw just about all of the United States.

The trouble with most every husband is that he wishes his wife could make bread like his mother, while the little woman wishes hubby could make dough like her father.

AUTO CLUB PREPARING DRIVER'S GUIDE FOR NEW HIGHWAY NOW OPEN THROUGH TO PANAMA CITY

A two-lane highway more than 4,500 miles long and stretching through seven countries—a road which, at its best, leaves something to be desired and at its worst is equal to a dusty, washboarded poorly maintained country lane.

This is how a four-member Automobile Club of Southern California survey team describes the Inter-American Highway between Nogales, Ariz., and Panama City. The formal opening of the highway took place April 26, when a three bus caravan of North and Central American highway officials completed a trip from Panama City to Mexico City over the highway.

The highway is at its best in Mexico but after it enters Guatemala there are long stretches of dirt, gravel and washboard road before the end at Chepo, 33 miles beyond the Panama Canal.

From the survey, the Auto Club is now preparing a folio of road conditions, accommodations, and auto service facilities along the route plus a detailed description of the general travel conditions and problems a motorist might encounter on the 4,500-mile drive.

Members of the survey team were Pavid Packwood and Art Watkins from the Auto Club's Public Relations Staff, Howard Goetzman, supervisors of the Club's Touring Bureau, and Bill Escherich, administrative assistant to Thomas M. Smith, director of travel services for the Auto Club.

Entering Mexico at Nogales the four, driving two GMC Carry-Alls, traveled south through Guaymas, Mazatlan, Guadalajara, Mexico City and Oaxaca in Mexico; Guatemala City, Guatemala; San Salvador, El Salvador; Tegucigalpa, Honduras; Managua, Nicaragua; San Jose, Costa Rica, and David, Panama City and Chepo, Panama.

From Nogales to Mexico City the group said the road is paved the entire distance and varies from poor to good. The width of the lanes, however, is generally less than United States' motorists are accustomed to.

Listed as road hazards along the Nogales-Mexico City road, and for the entire trip, are buses, pedestrians, cattle and other livestock, narrow bridges, loose gravel on the shoulders and chuck holes. All of the hazards, particularly the wandering livestock, are frequent and the driver must be constantly on his alert.

Due to the hazards along the road the four recommend that all driving be confined to daylight hours.

There are lots of people driving the road between Nogales and Mexico City and as a result there are plenty of service stations, accommodations and restaurants. The Mexican government even has a patrol on the road which is designed to assist motorists in trouble.

South of Mexico City the story changes. Although the entire road in Mexico is surface, it is very crooked at times but was considered adequate by the team.

The big advantage of the road between Mexico City and the Guatemalan border is traffic is quite light but the same old hazards of buses, pedestrians, livestock, chuck holes and loose gravel along the shoulders still existed.

From the Mexico-Guatemala border the road begins to deteriorate and at places narrows to a single lane. The single lane road, frequently unpaved and rough, although passable for virtually any vehicle, was usually caused by landslides or construction.

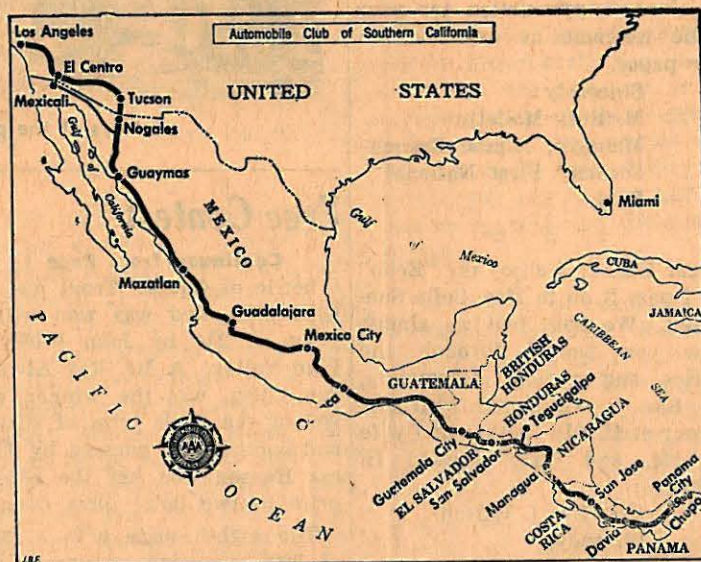

Public eating facilities and accommodations become more infrequent south of Mexico City, but service stations are frequent. The longest distance between service stations was 80 miles in one place.

The prices of gasoline varied by country. In Mexico only one brand, Pemex, produced by the government-owned oil company, is available. It costs an average of 30 cents a gallon for premium gas. In Central America major United states brands are available and

The team said that hotel and motel facilities along the entire route run the gamut from modest to deluxe. The average cost, considering prices in all seven countries, for a room for two, without meals, was $8.55 per night.

In Mexico alone the average cost was 6.15 per night. Reason for the higher average for the en-average about 48 cents a gallon.

Service and restrooms were noticeably better in the countries south of Mexico because of competition between gasoline firms.

Probably the most involved and most time consuming problem of the drive was the border crossings. The team suggests that motorists schedule their trip to arrive at the border as early as possible and plan to spend one to two hours moving from one country to another.

Little problem is encountered leaving a country but entering one can become quite involved. In most instances it required about three stops, many questions and lots of paperwork.

Although all border stations are open around the clock seven days a week, small extra charges are assessed motorists for off-hour processings of travel documents. Off hours are defined as siesta time, nights, Sundays and holidays.

The road will take the motorist from the hot tropics at sea level to elevations of more than 11,000 feet. The highest point in the road is 11,000 feet high at Cerro Buena Vista, Costa Rica, 59 miles south of San Jose.

Much of the trip is in mountains and elevations of 5,000 to 7,000 feet are not uncommon along the route.

Scout Fair Opens Saturday

The 14th annual Scout Fair of the San Diego County Council of the Boy Scouts of America will open at 11 a.m. on Saturday, May 25, at the Del Mar Fairgrounds.

There will be more than 200 demonstration booths and displays of the world of Scouting from Cubbing to Exploring. Also, there will be special exhibit areas of camping, pioneering, pinewood derby and specialty Exploring.

Many special guests from the world of sports and entertainment will help to entertain the more than 50,000 spectators that are expected.

The theme of the Scout Fair, Scouting's biggest single activity of the year, will be "Physical Fitness," designed to show the public how over 25,000 Scouts throughout the county are becoming physically fit by participating in Scouting.

The proceeds from the Fair ticket sales will be used for unit activities and for boy programs on a Council level.

tire trip was that, in Central America the team spent more time in capital cities, where costs are higher.

Actual prices ranged from $3.20 in Tehuantepec, Mexico, to $16 in San Salvador and Panama City where the four stayed in new, deluxe hotels. The average price for all accommodations in Central America was $11.40 a room for two, European plan.

In some instances maintenance of hotels and motels may not be quite up to the standards a United States traveler might expect but in most cases are passable.

Travelers are encouraged to make reservations for accommodations ahead at every planned stop as hotels get filled up early, sometimes with no apparent reason, and other times because of limited availability of facilities.

Most of the hotels and restaurants serve both European and American style meals with some

Generous Gesture

When we read the results of the National wheat control election held last Tuesday, we wondered for what possible reason a majority of the wheat growers turned down President Kennedy's generous offer of paying them large amounts of money for not growing wheat.

Until we were told that it was not President Kennedy who was putting up all this promised money, but that it was to be paid out of taxes collected from the American taxpayers. Now we are wondering about President Kennedy.

Ranch, later Clark's Cottages, belonging to Mrs. Lars Carlson, and now owned by the Ratliffs. This spring had an Indian name that means "water come all the time." Indians made camp beside it under the oak trees for longer than anyone can know.

Local people remember this fine spring very well and tell how its overflow irrigated the old vineyard that once grew in the center of Alpine, and how it watered the trees and gardens around the dwellings later built there. Men had to wear high topped rubber boots to get close to the spring from whence the water was piped. In those days no one dreamed that this seemingly endless source of bright water would someday disappear. But 15 years or so ago they say it began to diminish and continued to do so until by 1950 it was quite slowed up. Then wells were blasted in nearby and one day the spring just suddenly sank from sight. It came back a little after a time and lingered on until about five years ago when it ceased altogether. About a year later the biggest and most ancient oak which stood near the spring abruptly fell one day with a tremendous noise befitting the end of a giant and the way of life it had nourished. They say the earth shook as if a bomb had struck and after its fall the tree settled with many sighs and rustlings. In its former shadows is a large flat rock with several metate holes in it, once the scene of acorn grinding women.

Another beautiful spring used to flow year round up on Victoria Hill on the property across the road from Victoria Rock. Still another perpetual freshet was an oasis on the road to Japatul Valley where passersby could stop to drink, or fill their radiators, or water their horses. There were many others now gone. These were our "sacred" springs and no faucet can replace what they represented to us, grateful though we are for the faucet's supply. At Warner Springs one of the hot springs is a wishing well where the hopeful may throw in a coin and make a wish. Old timers say that long ago, before Warner Springs became a resort, the Indians of the vicinity used to consult one of these springs as an oracle. They'd ask it a question in a moment while it was still and if it remained still for a second longer the answer was no, but if it bubbled up freely, the answer was yes.

Wishing wells and fountains abound throughout the world and area real attraction to the traveler. Guide books name them among important places to visit. It's a rare person so jaded he won't pause to make a wish, toss in a coin, and let his spirit soar for a foolish moment in the hope that his wish may come true due to the magic powers of the water. Perhaps what this town needs is a wishing well. Or maybe only the faith that makes people everywhere love wishing wells and call springs of water "sacred."

a bottle of liquor. Trout was the fifth prize and was won with a guess of 210 by John Bilsky of Pine Valley. A Mr. Ray Alvie of San Diego was the winner with 202 of the sixth prize of shrimp, and another 202 guessed by Theresa Hanson won her the seventh prize of two large pizza donners.

The eighth prize with a guess of 202 consisting of two pounds of bacon was won by ticket No. 684410, no name. Another no name winner was ticket No. 995410 with a guess of 213 winning the 11th prize of a Little League car sticker. Mr. Paul Brock would appreciate having the holders of these two tickets stop in to the Log Cabin and make themselves known and claim their prizes.

Other winners were Ray Hanson with a guess of 212 who won the ninth prize of canned goods, Marvin Cheynoweth winning another prize, the 10th for a lube job, with 202, and Clarence Hoffman who won the 12th prize of two hair cuts by guessing 213.

The contest made $114.85 for the Alpine Junior Baseball Association in addition to their winning the first prize. It also established definitely the age of the oak tree which grows in the middle of the Log Cabin Cafe at 207 years. Everyone who participated in the contest had a good time guessing on the age, and many persons showed up who remembered the tree "when," but not 207 years ago.

Funds are being raised to install lights on the Mt. Empire High School football field, and Mt. Empire Lions Club has donated $249 towards same. Lights will enable the players to have their games at night so they and other students will not have to miss classes for afternoon games. They will also be accustomed to playing at night when playing elsewhere and will have a better chance to win. It is also expected that more adults will attend night games.

Mrs. Beulah Culver has started a scrapbook of mementos from the vacation trips she has taken with friends the last few years. Her latest additions are from a jaunt to Phoenix, Flagstaff, Oak Creek and the Grand Canyon. She left May 9 with Mr. and Mrs. John Steen of Santa Ana and Mrs. Mabel Taylor of La Mesa on this trip which included visiting relatives, touring and sightseeing, returning on the 14th. She enjoyed a much shorter trip when she motored to Pine Valley to spend this past weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Matt Sandberg of El Cajon who have a lovely mountain home there.

A group of young teenagers helped Donna Whitman celebrate her birthday last Saturday night. Dancing, gabbing, and eating seemed to make the evening end very quickly—at least for the kids. Sounds like a lovely time was had by all.

Bill Pipes Jr. is fortunate to be graduating in the June Class from State College which will be privileged to have President Kennedy present at the exercises. Bill will receive his degree in engineering which he has worked so hard for five years to earn. He plans to work in the Los Angeles area and to work toward a further degree in his chosen field. We wish Bill and his lovely wife, Joanne, much happiness and success.

A new family on the mountain these days, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cook have leased the Mt. Laguna Stables and are equipped with fine riding horses for the whole family. They also board horses and will plan private parties if anyone is interested. Mr. Laguna has many beautiful trails for horseback riding.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barnes and girls have recently purchased a lovely new home complete with swimming pool in Eucalyptus Hills, near Lakeside. Mr. Barnes has operated the snow plow on Mt. Laguna for many years and will continue his employment with the County of San Diego but will work out of Ramona. The Barnes plan to move after school is out.

Good news for sports enthusiasts. Teenage bowling teams will be scheduled, Thursday evening at the U. S. Air Force Base, Mt. Laguna. In addition to this very interesting sport, a baseball team for high school boys is being organized which will challenge any team interested in the area. For more information, please contact

Market Has Added Attractions

The installation of new cash registers at Florence's Market is another of the improvements being made by Jerry Harmer and Ed Rowan.

The new register is the latest Monroe-Sweda cash and charge system register and can keep a record of cash and charge sales, excise and sales taxes, and other necessary information. The smaller size of the machine is very convenient for the sales personnel.

The management have also started to give Blue Chip trading stamps in place of the Green Community stamps the store has given in the past. Ed Rowan states that they will continue to give Community stamps to those who want to have them to fill out books they now have.

Carla Wallenborn is on "Cloud 9" sice making the rank of captain of the Bandarett Corps of El Capitan. She has worked very hard and we're very proud of her for being chosen for this high ranking position. Be sure and watch for her when you attend the El Capitan football games.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Regan have sold their home on Frances Drive and moved in to El Cajon. Do hope these nice people drive out to the canyon often to say hello to their friends here.

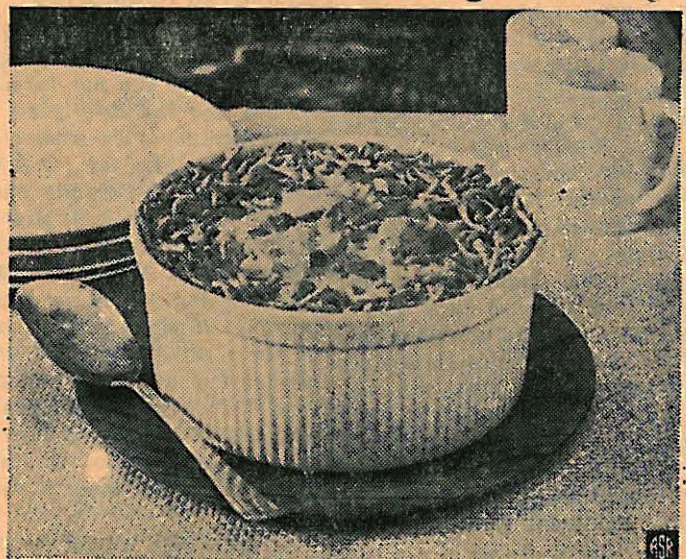

The Harbison Canyon PTA Board plans to attend a workshop in Balboa Park from 9:30 to 2:30 on Friday. Sessions like this make it much easier to work on committees and serve your community well.

The Wharff family would have had uninvited guests in their living room Saturday evening had it not been for the huge pile of boulders in their front yard. Two teenage boys in "the hottest thing on wheels" came careening down the curves at a high rate of speed and failed to make the turn in front of the Wharff home. The car was totally demolished and fortunately the boys were not. The underbody of the car was so badly damaged by the boulders that dollies were used to tow it away. Hope this will serve as a reminder to our canyon boys that speed and curves do not mix.

There will be a potluck luncheon and swimming party for the old and new boards of the Harbison Canyon PTA at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Palthe on Wednesday, May 29, starting at 11 a.m. Just goes to show that even hard working committees find time for fun and relaxation.

Cathy Sherwood returned to school Monday after hobbling around at home for over a week due to an injury to her foot. She now knows that it isn't wise to jump out of a tree when there is a rake on the ground underneath.

Casserole Cuts Cooking Corners

Here's good menu news: a glamorous tuna casserole topped with crisp chow mein noodles. Canned tuna, which requires no preparation, joins forces with other convenience foods to give you a choreless one-dish meal. When the casserole comes out of the oven, you'll enjoy the happy flavor balance of tuna with the sweetness of peas, the mild tang of pimiento and the pungent mushroom soup which blends the ingredients together. The noodles, of course, provide a pleasant texture contrast.

And here's good nutrition news: this tuna casserole not only gives you satisfying flavor and saves you work but supplies exceptionally fine nutrition values as well. Tuna goes to the head of the protein class for high protein content and low calories. It has valuable minerals and vitamins, too. And the vegetable oil in which tuna is packed, combined with the natural tuna oil, contributes desirable polyunsaturates to your diet.

Tuna Chow Mein Casserole

- 1 can undiluted cream of mushroom soup
- 1 can (1 pound) peas
- 1 can (4 ounces) pimiento, diced
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 can (3 ounces) chow mein noodles
- 2 cans (6 1/2 or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil

Combine undiluted soup, peas with liquid from can, pimiento, onion and lemon juice in a 1 1/2-quart casserole. Set aside 1 cup of the noodles. Fold remaining noodles and tuna into mixture in casserole. Arrange reserved noodles around edge. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 minutes.
 Yield: 6 servings.

national specialties. Variety is substantial with emphasis mainly on beef, chicken and seafoods. The four noted that cleanliness has greatly improved in recent years but still recommended that leafy, uncooked vegetables and unpeeled fresh fruits and vegetables should be avoided.

The cost of meals varied more or less in relation to the price of hotel rooms, with the most expensive meals being on a par with restaurant in the United States.

Members of the survey group pointed out that satisfactory restaurants do not occur as frequently as service stations and recommend that motorists take along a picnic lunch most of the time unless advance information is had on the availability of a good eating place.

Water is generally purified in hotels catering to Americans along the route. However, it still is a good idea for a traveler to carry a supply of drinking water for use in an emergency.

Auto repair facilities are found in every village and all along the roadway. The team say the mechanics everywhere are resourceful and inexpensive, but the big problem is communication if one does not speak Spanish as the mechanics and their bosses speak very little English.

Although English is spoken to some extent at hotels and main restaurants little English is used at most service stations and national borders. The team suggested that persons planning such a trip should work on their Spanish and brush up on a few helpful phrases.

The length of the road travels through virtually every type of climate and scenery a person could imagine. There are arid stretches near the border at Nogales, vast farm and livestock areas, high mountain passes with pine trees and cool weather, hot and humid tropics, beautiful beaches and canyons of rock.

In conclusion the team pointed out that the people in all of the countries were extremely friendly, the most friendly were those in the remote areas, while those in the principal cities were a bit more brash, which they point out is the usual way in any metropolitan center in the world.

To really get to know the people the group said a small knowledge of Spanish is necessary. "Once the people see the traveler trying to work with their language they will go out of their way to be informative, friendly and helpful," the four agreed.

beautiful iron wood fruit bowls and many very handsome lamps, as well as tables, shelves and picture frames among other things. One very attractive table in their home is of an intricate design in iron wood with a lamp to match. He never varnishes his wood pieces but rubs them down with a wax he makes himself. He has made an amusing toy daschund which wiggles its tail when pulled along on a string. This, he says, delights his grandchildren who are also charmed with two small barrel chairs he has fashioned from hardwood barrels.

Sometimes this wood-working artist can be persuaded to do a job for a friend as he has recently done over a fine old Duncan-Phyfe settee for Mrs. Gordon Wilson. This unusually beautiful piece is over 50 years old and was a recent gift to Mrs. Wilson from Mrs. Clarence Stearns. Of Honduras mahogany, the wood of the piece is hand carved. It was used in the late Mr. Stearns photography studio in Rochester, Minn. for over 35 years and was the seat from which many famous persons were photographed.

Among the personages to sit for their portraits on the Duncan-Phyfe were, Billy Sunday, Ma Sunday, William Allen White, Knute Rockney, Ruth St. Dennis, Jack Dempsey, James Roosevelt, and four generations of the famous Mayo Brothers of the Medical Clinic bearing their name in Rochester.

Mrs. Stearns said the settee was an especial favorite for wedding pictures since it allowed ample room to spread the flowing skirts of the bride. It was also popular with ladies who wore big bell sleeves and many ruffles and could not do justice to their gowns in an ordinary chair.

This settee was in a rather worn condition when Mr. Griffith took over the task of remodeling it. Now its fine wood gleams richly and he has done a beautiful job of upholstering it in the new material Mrs. Wilson picked out. In speaking of the settee, Mrs. Stearns said that she wanted to leave something in Alpine in memory of the Stearns and she wanted it to be something intimate that had shared their lives, so chose this particular item and this particular family whom she was sure would care for it. Mr. Griffith is justly proud of his part in this plan since he has restored the settee to its original perfection.

Mrs. Griffith is a contented woman who has found interesting things to keep her busy. She collects desert glass and has a very nice selection of well colored pieces. She also makes rag dolls of unusual charm. Some are doorstos, but most of them are the cuddly toys little girls love.

Alpine is lucky to have this pleasant couple as permanent residents. We wish them many good wishes on their golden anniversary and hope they remain among us for a long time.

The shopping bus trip to Grossmont Center on Friday of last week was enjoyed very much by the Mt. Empire Woman's Club. Each person was given a carnation corsage by a lovely girl attendant representing the Center, and a group picture was taken on arrival there. Lunch was enjoyed at Marston's Orange Room, and a flower arrangement display in an adjoining room, and an additional flower show on the mall. Everyone was on their own after that to shop until the bus left for home at 3:15 p.m. Those that missed this trip should try and go on the next one, as it was very worthwhile.

Ed Roberts was taken to Los Angeles last weekend by Mr. and Mrs. Skonberg. He blacked out while returning from his ranch in Tierra del Sol week before last, and ran into an embankment and wrecked his car, but luckily was not hurt. His doctor is in Los Angeles, and he went for a check-up.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reid of Los Angeles and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Strand of Pine Valley. A dinner for the family and close friends was held May 23 at their home, after which the young couple left for Arizona.

The Boy Scouts under the leadership of Al Richardson, Larry Sykes and Ray Dalen, went on a camping trip to the Salvation Mine owned by Mr. Edward, near Ocotillo. The temperature was 100 to 110 degrees for the weekend, so the boys spent much of the time exploring a huge cave and some hiking. A knife inspection was also held. The highlights of the trip included a vapor lock on Larry Sykes' car and a blowout on Ray Dalen's car. They returned Sunday morning. Those Scouts who went were, Gregg and Leon Sykes, Gary and Danny Dalen, Steve and Ricky Winkleman, Tom Wiesman, Bill Flowers, Tom Burrows, Keith Faulconer, Mike Herbertson, Mike Grzczkowski, Buddy Hill, Marvin Troutman, A. D. Hill, Rene Leroux, Lary and Steve Long and David Raybould and Paul and Davey Richardson.

white gowns and veils. After them marched six more lovely small girls in white carrying bouquets of red carnations. These were, flower girls, Elida Muller, Beverly Grijalva, Anna Brown, Vera Brown, Denise Pingleton, and Deniel Espinoza. Bouquet girls, Rema Magginni, Luriline Brown, Johanna Barrett, Hazel Ruiz, Barbara Muller, and Mary Anita Brown.

The crown carrier was Paulette Brown. Young girls who carried the Blessed Mother were Virginia Chessay, Vera Muller, Kathy Hyde and Teofilia Hyde.

After the procession reached the church which was very colorful in its decorations of handmade paper flowers all of which were created by the ladies of the Altar Society, the flower girls marched up and placed their bouquets around the feet of the Blessed Mother which the carriers had returned to her altar.

The high moment was the placing of the crown of flowers on the Virgin's brow which was done by lovely little Joan Muller who wore all white with a veil. Following this, Mass was said by Father Riva.

Another young brother, Ceasar Mengalli, met the crowd at the church.
