4-Way Unification Plan Approved

At a public hearing held last night at the El Cajon Valley High School cafeteria, the Committee on School District Organization approved a four-way unification plan for the elementary school districts within the Grossmont Union High School District.

This plan will now go to the State Committee on Unification for their approval or disapproval.

The plan approved contemplates the unification of the elementary school districts within the Grossmont District into four unified districts as follows: First, La Mesa-Spring Valley and Lemon Grove. Second, Lakeside and Alpine. Third, Santee alone. Fourth, Cajon Valley, Dehesa, Jamul-Las Flores, Barrett and Dulzura. This plan had previously been tentatively approved in May.

Before finally adopting the four-way plan, the Committee had discussed and voted on a number of different plans for unification ranging from the complete unification of all the elementary districts into one unified district, to splitting the Grossmont District

INTIMATE GLIMPSES

By BEA La FORCE

Among our friends are a number who have stopped smoking, convinced of the dangers in the continued use of tobacco. Of these, many seemed to have no trouble dropping the habit. They simply snubbed out a last cigarette and were finished with it. Some say they were never tempted again. Others confessed to some uneasy moments when the temptation to light up was too strong to resist. One we know is trying substitutes, some of which he got from our herb garden. He thinks part of his trouble lies in getting over the ritual of the routine smoke. "It's something to do first thing in the morning," he said, "and in tense moments. Takes the place of a lucky charm with some of us."

This city cousin came visiting and filled his pipe with sage and marjoram. Puffing away he said it wasn't half bad. We had some of the herbs dried, and they did make a nice aromatic smoke. This man said he had heard that our wild sumac, when the leaves turn red, makes a good smoke. Says he has a friend who is gradually easing himself off tobacco by mixing the dried sumac leaves with his smoke, putting in a little more with each can of tobacco. One day the man will be using the pure sumac leaves. Just how much of an improvement this is we don't know. But they say the sumac is

Alpine Cub Scouts Have Busy Month

The Cub Scouts of Pack 350, Alpine, will hold their final July activity next Saturday, the 25th, according to Mrs. Warren Young, Den Mother of Den No. 1.

Mr. Charles Bingham and Mr. James Osburne will take the boys fishing at Lake Murray. They are all to meet at the Youth Center at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, and plan to return about 3 in the afternoon.

Mrs. Young reports that other July activities included attendance at a Padre baseball game where they were taken on July 6th by Mr. Young and Mr. Pete Hergoth.

On the 10th, Mr. and Mrs. Young and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wedel took the boys on a tour of Gillespie Field.

Highway 67 To Be Improved

The State Highway Department has awarded a contract for the construction of 2.6 miles of four and six lane freeway on State Highway 67. The new improvement will be from the intersection of Magnolia Avenue and Pepper Drive north of the city of El Cajon to the intersection of Woodside Avenue and River Ford Road.

This is the first section of a freeway that will eventually extend to the San Diego River bridge north of Lakeside.

The project is estimated to be completed in 10 months and the Highway Department states that proper routing of traffic will be maintained during the construction period.

ALPINE POST OFFICE BROKEN INTO LAST SATURDAY NIGHT

The Alpine Post Office was broken into sometime before 1:30 a.m. last Sunday morning. Entry was made into the building by breaking the glass pane of the right-hand front door, and into the work space of the Post Office by breaking the glass pane of the money order cage and entering through the window.

Alpine Fire Commissioners Meet

The Board of Fire Commissioners held their regular monthly meeting last Monday night. There was present at the meeting a representative of a manufacturer of fire trucks who presented a proposal to the Commissioners for the purchase of a fire truck. The truck which he presented has a pumping capacity of 750 gallons per minute and a storage tank of 500 gallons capacity and meets the Board of Fire Underwriters' requirements for the control of structural fires.

The proposal was made on a basis of total cost of between $16,000 and $17,000, depending on the extra equipment furnished with the truck, and with payment to be made over a period of time on a lease-purchase agreement.

There were present at the regular meeting only three members of the Board; Chairman Al Hinkle, and Commissioners William H. Jones and E. L. Freeland. It was agreed that all five members of the Board should be present to discuss the possibility of making such a purchase. It was, therefore, decided to hold a special meeting the next night at which all five members could be present.

At the Tuesday night meeting the proposal was again explained by the representative of the man-

Cutting Horses at Cowbelles Barbecue

The barbecue to be held next Sunday, July 26th, by the San Diego County Cowbelles will feature a cutting horse contest. The contest will be conducted by the California Cutting Horse Association with the local chairman in charge being Mrs. Jean Immenschuh of Ivanhoe Ranch. The contest will start at 10 a.m.

The Cowbelles' barbecue is an annual affair of this group, and will be held this year at Ramona Oaks, with the barbecue to be served starting at noon. Bob Garboni of Descanso will do the barbecuing using his famous oldtime family recipe.

In addition to the cutting horse contest and the barbecue, swimming will be available at the big Olympic sized pool at Ramona Oaks. A 4H steer purchased at the Del Mar Fair by Mrs. Emily Sawday will be given away as a prize, and a blue-ribbon lamb also purchased for this purpose at Del Mar.

Mrs. Edna Hanley of Witch Creek is the General Chairman of this affair, and local women on her committee in addition to Mrs. Immenschuh are: Mrs. Charlotte Holcomb, Mrs. Bertha Daley and Mrs. LaVerne Powell.

Admission, which includes the cutting horse contest, the barbecue and swimming is $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children.

The entry was discovered by the night mail carrier who arrived to make his regular mail delivery. He went to the Log Cabin bar and notified Jack Moore, the bartender on duty, who promptly called the Sheriff's office. The sheriff on patrol duty in the Alpine area responded to the call and arrived at the Post Office within a few minutes.

Postmaster Phil Hall was attending a dinner and party at Bailey's Cafe, a block away from the Post Office. The party ended at about 2:00 a.m. Mr. Hall drove his car to the front of the Post Office and saw that the lights were on and the Sheriff's car parked in front. He went inside to investigate, saw the damage to the front door and to the money order window, and conferred with the Sheriff regarding the damage done and the possibility of theft.

It was found that the person, or persons, who had entered had pried open the lockers, drawers and cabinets inside the Post Office, and seemingly had made a

Pine Valley Incinerator Use

In a meeting with Gene Bolden of the County, Dick Rebound of the Forest Service and Chief Perna of the Pine Valley Fire Department they ask that the people be informed on the use of the new incinerator through the media of the press.

The incinerator was built with the express purpose of keeping fire contained within it. If the gates are closed after using, the fires will be contained AND NOT IN YOUR HOMES. It will be burned at one end every other week. The sign SOLIDS indicates that weeds, grass, and branches should be thrown in the old dumps at the left as you drive in. All your cooperation will be appreciated by the county, Forestry and the local Department.

Mt. Empire Group Incorporates

At the Cafeteria in Campo on Tuesday, the Mt. Empire Citizens' Rights Association held their first meeting as an incorporated group. Mr. Maurice Plumlee, executive assistant to Supervisor Dave Bird, was the main speaker. He spoke on many subjects of interest to the large crowd assembled.

This Club was formed to improve the Community by controlling zoning, encouragement of sound financial policies and business-like methods for all public agencies to disseminate information for the general welfare of the community. Mr. Al Robinson, acting chairman nominated Mr. B. Haddox, Daisy Del Vecchio and Hazel Krause for a nominating committee to elect permanent officers at the August meeting on the first Tuesday.

Thursday, July 17, I rushed Binki Holmes and her mother, Ruth, to the Medic, as they were without transportation. Binki, was preparing her calf's food, when she stepped into a tin can putting a deep cut in her lower leg. We rushed her to the Base Medic. Sgt. Glen Estes wrapped the leg, but said that it needed stitches and he wasn't qualified to do the job.

We then drove to El Cajon Valley Hospital, where Binki had eight stitches taken. The doctor said that she just missed cutting a tendon. Thank goodness it wasn't anything more serious than a deep cut.

The Holmes family are going on vacations. Jack and Ruth left at 5:00 a.m. Monday morning for their vacation in Catalina for a week. Two of the girls are going camping at the Girl Scout Camp in Cuyamaca. The other three girls are going to spend their week at their grandmother's in San Diego.

It looks as though the Desmond Smith family might not be able to use that beautiful new trailer, at least not for a trip to British Columbia. Their son Warren writes that the ship isn't going to dock where they expected it to. Warren as you know has been on a bicycle tour of Europe, and should be home soon.

Tom Huntington fell Saturday, July 11, and broke two ribs. He was taken to El Cajon Valley Hospital for treatment. Wednesday, complications set in and he was taken to Dr. Monti, he was then sent home and told to stay flat on his back. We all hope he mends well, and is up and around soon.

Pat Huntington says "How about a community letter to Carol Stoneking?" Carol has been in Korea for a pretty long time now and she has been wondering about all

Strange But True

Some Lincoln-Kennedy Parallels:

Each man was a second child, and each man grew to exceed six feet in height.

Each man married a 24-year-old socialite who spoke French fluently.

Each man had relatives who were mayors of Boston, U. S. Attorney Generals, ambassadors to Great Britain and U. S. Senators.

Abraham Lincoln was elected to Congress in 1847, John F. Kennedy in 1947.

Lincoln was runner-up for the vice presidential nomination in 1856, Kennedy in 1956.

Lincoln was elected President in 1860, Kennedy in 1960.

Each man had a series of debates with better-known opponents.

Both families lost a child while residing in the White House.

Both presidents were involved in civil rights issues.

Both were fatally wounded on a Friday in the presence of their wives.

The man nearest each President was seriously wounded.

Both bodies were placed on the same bier.

John Wilkes Booth assassin of Lincoln was born in 1839.

Lee Harvey Oswald, Kennedy's assassin was born in 1939.

Both Booth and Oswald were Southerners favoring unpopular ideas and both were slain before a trial could be held.

Lincoln and Kennedy successors were both named Johnson, both Southerners and both Democrats and had previously served in the Congress of the United States.

Andrew Johnson was born in 1808 and Lyndon B. Johnson in 1908.

Lincoln's secretary, whose name was Kennedy advised him not to go to the theater the night he was killed.

President Kennedy's secretary, whose name was Lincoln advised him not to go to Dallas.

It would seem history has repeated itself!

Rick Thurman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thurman, 279 Lento Lane, is spending the summer visiting his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Thurman, Jr., in Shelton, Washington, a suburb of Hoodport. Steve Northrup, son of Mrs. Alicia Northrup of Spring Valley, formerly of the Crest, is also with them. The three boys are working for the Simpson Timber Company. The young Thurmans are enjoying a two-week visit from Sandy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Yeager of Bostonia.

The Ken Jensen family of 2221 Suncrest Boulevard, spent several days last week in Los Angeles, as Polly says, "Making like common tourists." Ken's sister, Mrs. Ernest Arnoldo, and her children came down from Seattle to join the Jensens, and they all went together to see Disneyland, Knotts Berry Farm, Marineland and Beverly Hills.

Welcome to a brand new Crestian! Jeff Andrew Brunner was born Tuesday, July 14 at Grossmont Hospital, tipping the scales at 7 lbs., 6 ozs. His happy parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Brunner, 2424 Ocean View Place, have two other sons, Kent 4, and Eric 2½.

Mrs. Aubrey Johnson reports a very gratifying response to the half-price sale now in full swing at the Crest Thrift Shop, 1621 Eucalyptus Boulevard. The sale will continue for another week, with the shop open Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 1 to 4 p.m. The sponsors still have no place to house the Thrift Shop when they have to move from the present address, which has been sold. If anyone hears of any small place the Church may use, please call Mrs. E. M. Grenier, at 442-5920 or Mrs. Johnson at 444-3450.

Everyone will be glad to hear that Father Stephen Koloszar, pastor of the Church of Saint Louise de Marillac is home from the hospital, and improving each day. Substitute priests will continue to conduct services until such time as Father Koloszar is able to resume his regular duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Milford Stambach of 224 North Lane have just returned from a week at their cabin in the Laguna Mountains. ### HORSES! HORSES! HORSES!

By MARGARET LOWTHIAN

The excitement is starting to build up among the Alpine horse folks as the Alpine Viejas Days Horse Show draws near. The interest is especially keen about the three classes in the show on Saturday, August 1st, which are open to Alpine riders and horses only. Two of the classes are for juniors 17 years of age and under; one a Western Pleasure and one Western Horsemanship. The third class is for Alpine adults only.

Talking around to various Alpine riders, there seems to be no question but that the two junior classes will fill very well. Most of the kids have been working for weeks with their horses in anticipation of this show. The Pequeno Riders, of course, have been getting quite a bit of show experience and should be out in force. Two groups, one riding at the Palo Verde ring, the other at the Irvine ring, have been taking lessons from a professional trainer.

But almost every adult I have asked has been most reluctant to decide whether they will ride or not. I keep telling myself that I will ride in the adult Alpine class, but if I don't find the time to ride a few times before the show, I might not be able to make it. The lack of time to ride seems to be the biggest problem the adults are having.

This is the first of the Viejas Days shows to have these classes for Alpiners only, and they are an opportunity seldom available for the local riders to compete by themselves. If these classes appeal to Alpine riders, then they should be supported to the fullest extent at this show. If there is not enough interest, the show management will consider eliminating them in the future.

A week ago last Sunday, the 9-year-old gelding owned by Lee Liggett was being loaded in a trailer at the Ball Ranch on Tavern Road to be moved to Eucalyptus Hills. This horse had been trailered many times, but it was something he did not particularly like to do. This time he acted up and in the process he broke his neck, killing him instantly. Getting a horse in a trailer is often a job, but seldom ends so tragically.

Howard Barrett, formerly of Tucson, is now established with his horses on the property at the southeast corner of Tavern Road and South Grade Road. For the past few months passerbys have been enjoying seeing his two good looking black horses in the corner

Lemon Grove to Vote on City

The County Board of Supervisors approved the holding of an election on the proposition of the incorporation of approximately 3½ square miles in the Lemon Grove area.

A petition had been circulated requesting that an election be held for incorporation of approximately five square miles which was found to be sufficient.

At a hearing held before the Board, property owners in some of the area protested being included. The Board of Supervisors determined to eliminate portions which left the remaining 3½ square miles.

Present plans call for a special election to be held in early October. There have previously been two elections on incorporation in this same area; one in 1955, and the other 1958, both of which were defeated.

corral. Howard's pride and joy, and rightly so, is the good 6 year old registered Quarterhorse gelding, Bar Mack. Mack has an illustrious pedigree going back to Three Bars on the top side. The mare, Bobby, who is black with a bald face, is 17 years old, and is Mack's stablemate and companion.

Our best wishes to July Birthday celebrants: Jean Beasley, the 7th; and Bob and George Parrott, Jr., the 12th and 24th.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jaussaud and their house guest, Mrs. Lillis Mobbs, drove to Hemet Wednesday to visit Mr. Jaussaud's brother and family, spending the night there. They enjoyed Saturday at the Silver Strand with friends.

Are you an old-time San Diegan? To join the San Diego Old-Timers' Club you must have lived in San Diego County fifty years ago, during the year 1904. (Next year the date will be upped to 1905, etc.) Those eligible are urged to drop a line to San Diego Old-Timers' Club, L. H. Voeltzel, Secretary, 1536 Felton St., San Diego 92102 and have your name added to the mailing list. Every year in June members get together for a dinner and in July for a picnic. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jaussaud, San Diego natives, attended the picnic held Sunday, July 12 at Felicita Park near Escondido and estimated the crowd in the 100's. Old-Timers wishing transportation to the picnic boarded two buses at San Diego Plaza. Some members came from L.A. and even Fresno to see old friends.

Mike Colombo, taking a swing apart, dropped a pipe on his hand. When pain persisted the next day X-rays were taken and he entered Grossmont Hospital for an overnight stay. Surgery was performed to mend a cut tendon which had drawn up into the arm.

Jean Bolstein and Shirley Sawyer gave a Bridal Shower for Linda Whittaker Tuesday evening, July 7 in Jean's home, Olive Vista Road.

(Linda will be married to Dennis Bird in September, and they will rent the Matthew's smaller redwood home on Lyons Valley Road.) Decorations were in lavender and white, Linda's favorite color being lavender. The 22 guests present included Dennis' mother, Mrs. J. H. Bird. Fun games were enjoyed, followed by the gift-opening. As Linda opened the many lovely things for her future home Shirley wrote down her remarks for posterity. Refreshments were punch and a lavender and white cake decorated by Shirley. Mrs. Irene Impink helped serve. Having recently sold the house to the Bolsteins she felt right at home.

Claudia Bess, Highway 94, has been down with the flu the past week. At last month's Buck Fair at San Marcos she showed 7 bucks, and each brought a prize including two firsts. She stayed at the Del Mar Fair and won prizes with her goats, expecting to receive prize papers shortly.

The Arthur Bordens who recently sold their home in Jamul have bought a two-story home in San Diego near Fletcher Hills.

Al Lester sold his entire stock of New Zealand rabbits to our new neighbors, Jean and Harold Along with the horse show which has been approved by the San Diego Horseman's Executive Council, and which begins at 8:30 a.m. will be a children's costume parade, pie and watermelon eating contests, calf wrestling, hay rides and many other interesting and unusual fun events for the whole family. The day will be climaxed by a hootenanny at 7:30 in the evening.

Presenting the High Point and Reserve High Point trophies will be Sheriff Joe O'Connor, Lakeside Chamber of Commerce President Ray Grayson; J. Clifford Wallace, President of the San Diego East Stake and Bishop Steven W. Roberts. The Bonanza Gift Shop is donating a gift certificate to the High Point of the day.

JOYCE AND JUDY CROSS

CREST TWINS TRIUMPH AGAIN

Crest twins, Joyce and Judy Cross, 17, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cross of 122 Wall Place, have done it again. The girls, who won first place at the State Youth for Christ Music Competition in May, returned home this week with first place honors from the Youth for Christ Convention Talent Contest, held at Winona Lake, Indiana, July 3 through 12. The competition included state winner from 16 United States Regions, and National winners from Canada, Japan, England and Germany.

Joyce and Judy sang at one, and sometimes two performances each of the 10 days of competition. With daily rehearsals, plus group choral work and numerous meetings and convention events, the girls were kept spinning. They say, "The most terrific event of the whole convention was the President's Reception." Another stand-out memory was the tremendous lawn luau, which the Youth for Christ Singers put on for all the teenagers taking part. Of course, the climax was the finals, on July 9, when the twins sang "My God is Real," and "That's What He Did for Me," and found that they had won first place.

The youngsters have also been awarded a $400.00 scholarship to Azusa College, and are awaiting word now of further scholarships to be awarded to them.

These girls sang and won in competition with talented young people from all over the world, and the Crosses and the Crest can be justifiably very proud of them. Congratulations, Joyce and Judy.

Gas Company To Make Refunds

It won't be very big, but another refund is coming for customers of San Diego Gas & Electric Company.

The company announced that the California Public Utilities Commission has approved its plan to distribute a total of $333,162 to its rate payers in the form of a credit on bills beginning with the August cycle.

The latest refund, the third since the first of the year, results from prior refund adjustments and a court decision which ruled that a special Texas state tax on natural gas reserves was unconstitutional. El Paso Natural Gas Company refunded the overpayments to its customers, including Southern Counties Gas Company, which passed along a pro-rated share to SDG&E.

A company spokesman said the average residential customer with both gas and electric service will receive a 59c credit on his August bill, under the plan approved by the PUC.

New Rabies Cases Have Been Found

The San Diego Department of Public Health yesterday warned dog owners that the rabies epidemic is persisting along the international border and that a constant alert to rabies should be maintained.

Dr. J. B. Askew, director of public health, said that so far this month the Public Health Laboratory has confirmed the presence of rabies in four dog picked up in San Diego County near the border. All were strays. Three had bitten other dogs.

Dr. Askew said the first dog was found dead in June on Dairy Mart Rd., 100 yards south of Highway 101 and across the Tijuana River from San Ysidro.

The second dog was shot by an Imperial Beach policeman July 6 when it tried to attack the officer. Dr. Askew said the dog had been observed acting peculiarly and was reported to have appeared sick and to have bitten another dog.

The third rabid dog was also shot by police after biting another dog. This occurred July 8 on Monument Rd. across the Tijuana River from San Ysidro.

The last dog was shot by a Nestor man after killing two chickens and attacking three puppies. Since the first laboratory confirmed case of rabies in the epidemic occurred in a Tijuana dog September 4, 1962, a total of 96 laboratory confirmed cases of rabies have occurred in animals picked up in San Diego County, D. Askew said. Ninety-one of these cases occurred in the first 15 months of the epidemic, from September, 1962, through November, 1963.

December, 1963, was the county's first month free of rabies. The lull lasted five months.

In May and June of this year the Public Health Laboratory confirmed rabies in a stray dog picked up in Otay Mesa and a stray dog picked up near San Ysidro.

"With four more rabid dogs straying into our county this month, it is obvious that dog owners should take precautions to pro-

Hugh and Helen Smyth are back home after their stay in Chula Vista due to Hugh having surgery. He looks wonderful, and says he feels better than he has for a long time. ☆ ☆ ☆

Mr. Sheppard of Cameron Corners has been appointed mail delivery man of the Campo area, and he took over the beginning of this week. We are sorry to lose Mack McCoy, but understand he will be substitute delivery postman. ☆ ☆ ☆

The Alvin Riddle family have just returned from their vacation, and before they left, they moved into the Wood's rental in Morena Village. Riddle is in the Forestry Service, and Mrs. Riddle is assistant to Mrs. Walker at the Mt. Empire Electric Co. office in Campo. They have four children, and Helen Kendrick of Buckman Springs Road looks after them during working hours. ☆ ☆ ☆

Norma Molchan is now home. She was gone for a number of months, and was taking care of her daughter's little son while she was teaching this last semester. ☆ ☆ ☆

Alpine Appliance Salesroom Closed

The salesroom of the Alpine Appliance & Sales located on Highway 80 at the east end of Alpine has been closed Mrs. Dick Mason reports. This business establishment has been in Alpine for about a year, and in this time has been located first next to the Flying A station, and then at the building formerly occupied by Green's Hay Barn. According to Mrs. Mason, neither of these buildings lent themselves to ideal use as a salesroom for household appliances.

Therefore, until such time as a proper salesroom can be found, the Alpine Appliance & Sales business will be conducted from the homes of the partners, Dick Mason and Lee Blair. They will continue to give repair service for home appliances, and will show new appliances on appointment.

Beverly Burnham as the Countess Louisa and Martin Sheratte as the Count in Starlight's "Song of Norway," received top honors for opening night performances. The show will run Thursday through Sunday, this week. (July 23, 24, 25, 26.)

CHILDREN AND FIRE

In the first place there are far too many brush and structural fires, and in the second place far too many of them are traced to the result of children's activities either playing with matches or by some other means.

One fire each year in our back country would be too many. However, a large number are started by other than the result of carelessness or design by human beings.

The cost, or expense, of each fire that is started comes in two categories. First, the value of the property destroyed by the fire (and sometimes the loss of human life); and second, the cost of controlling and extinguishing the fire.

We have very efficient agencies for the apprehension and control of fires in our area, but for even a minor fire the cost to the taxpayers is several hundreds of dollars. For a medium sized fire the cost may be thousands of dollars, and for a large fire that burns over a long period of time, the cost will be ten's of thousands of dollars. This does not include the value of the damage done or take into account the too frequent loss of life.

We are pleased to note that the Board of Fire Commissioners of the Alpine Local Fire District has called attention to the School Board of the Alpine Union School District the fact that a number of fires lately have been caused by children and requested that they undertake the coordination of an educational program for the children in their district and their parents in regard to fire prevention and fire control.

We are further pleased to note that the Board of Trustees of the Alpine School District have accepted this recommendation and will commence such a program in their schools this fall.

We suggest that the school boards of the other elementary districts within the County, if they are not already doing so, seriously consider such a program.

LAW IN ACTION

LANDLORD'S DUTY

Usually the landlord keeps control over some part of rented property. The more he controls, the more he can keep an eye on the tenant's activities, and the more responsibility he has. The area he controls must be safe for the tenant and the public, or else.

As a rule, what is not in the tenant's actual possession, is the landlord's responsibility.

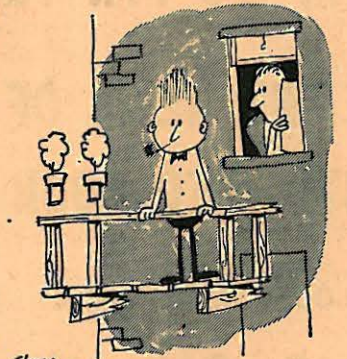

Accidents often happen on stairways, and outside stairways are under the landlord's control if all of the tenants use them; and inside stairways generally are not for the landlord's use but solely for the tenant. Sometimes the landlord will keep some control of inside stairs, say for storage or repair or to get outside. If so, he will be responsible for any defect in these stairways.

Porches, platforms, and decks often cause trouble. If accessible only to the tenant then they are his responsibility alone. If other tenants also use them, then the landlord again has to keep them up properly; and if he keeps up any part of them he must keep the whole area in good repair.

One landlord tied a clothesline which all tenants used to a post on the porch though only one tenant used the porch. The post weakened and hurt one tenant. The court held that by the landlord's clothesline he kept control of the whole porch, and hence was liable for the injury.

The same rule holds true of yards, play areas, and driveways used by many of the tenants or their children.

In one case a large apartment owner had a large play area. He allowed cars to drive on it to park near the apartments. One car driven there ran over and injured a child. The child sued. The court held the landlord to blame for not properly caring for the grounds under his control.

Dear Editor:

Last week we had published in the Alpine Echo an article asking the people of the other elementary districts comprising the Grossmont Union High School District if they were aware of the events that have taken place and are about to take place regarding school unification.

Some people are saying that fighting this is a losing cause as we are too small to fight the State of California. They follow by saying the odds are much too overwhelming for any small group of citizens to overcome. However, we would like to point out that our country was founded by people fighting for a cause they believed just, regardless of the odds, fighting outsiders who attempted to impose something called "Taxation without representation," something that the people are again realistically faced with regarding Assembly Bill 145.

For those of you that feel as we do, we're not alone. There is a group organized for the purpose of fighting this bill known as the Committee to Retain Citizens Control of School, with address at 122 N. McDowell Blvd., Petaluma, California.

This group is circulating a referendum petition calling for the objectionable portions of A. B. 145 to be submitted to the voters for their consideration. Copies of this Petition are available at the Jamul Las Flores School, Lyons Valley Road, Jamul, California (Phone 466-7744). These petitions have to be sent in by July 31, 1964, so time is short. Anyone unable to sign this petition at the school should make their wishes known to their State Representatives.

Yours very truly,
Ronald Beidler

CECIL LEWINSON

Cecil Lewinson Passes

One of Alpine's prominent citizens, Cecil Lewinson, died in a rest home early Tuesday morning, July 21. Born May 2, 1895 in Sterling, Ill., he was raised in St. Joseph, Missouri, where his parents moved when he was a baby.

Mr. Lewinson settled in San Diego in 1910 where he was in business. His firm was the American Typewriter Company. It was in this office that he met his wife, Lois, who came to San Diego from her home in Colorado, in 1919 and became the firm's bookkeeper. Mrs. Lewinson says, smiling in memory, that when she threatened to quit her job, the boss married her to keep her there.

Mr. Lewinson was often troubled with illness throughout his life and in 1937 the couple came to Alpine to try the climate for his health. This time they stayed only a few weeks, but in 1940 they returned to stay, buying the Alpine Villa Court which they kept until 1954. At that time they sold this property and bought the Highlands Ranch giving it its name. In 1955 they sold out the Highlands and after several other local moves, settled in the present location at Rock Terrace Road.

As long as his health would permit, the Lewinsons followed their favorite hobbies of camping, hunting, fishing and golf. Of late years they have found much interest in mining trips. Mr. Lewinson will be remembered and missed by many Alpiners and others who often visited with him in his small office in the center of Alpine.

SCHRADE REPORTS ON LEGISLATION

Another step on the long, tortuous road to full year utilization of our state higher educational facilities has now been taken. A subcommittee of the Assembly Interim Committee on Education has held a hearing on a resolution adopted at the special session last spring which calls for further study of year around operations of the state colleges on a number of possible schedules.

The 1960 Master Plan for Higher Education in California, officially approved by the Legislature, called for the State Coordinating Council on Higher Education to study the relative merits of three semester and four quarter plans for year around use of the physical plants of both public and private institutions, and to recommend, on the basis of its study, an annual calendar for higher education in California.

In 1961, the University Regents and the State College Trustees began long-range preparations for the transition to more continuous use of facilities under their supervision. The University actually secured legislative approval in its 1962-63 budget for funds to establish year around operations on an experimental basis. In 1963 the University and the colleges requested formal consideration of the problems involved by the Coordinating Council.

The Council staff, assisted by a Technical Committee representing the University, state colleges, private colleges, junior colleges, and secondary education, prepared a report which explored the comparative merits of the trimester and four quarter school years as methods for operating higher education facilities on a year around basis. The report was approved by the full Coordinating Council on January, 1964. The Council adopted a ten-point resolution at the same time, which in effect called upon the University and the state colleges to begin year around four quarter operations on selected campuses by 1966-67. The resolution called upon the Legislature to declare its intent to support year around operations on this basis, but apparently communication with our 1964 session on this point was not established.

At the subcommittee hearing, the chairman said that the plan proposed by the Council is so far reaching in its policy implications that it should have been referred to the Legislature, which must guard the interests of students, educators, and the tax-paying public. Represented at the meeting were the Council and the system of state colleges, but not the University.

Intimate Glimpses

not a stimulant or a poison anyhow.

Says here in the herb book that a number of other herbs are good mixed with tobacco to lessen its strength and potential hold on the smoker. Wild Mullein leaves when smoked like tobacco or added to a small amount of tobacco are named as acting also as a temporary relief of minor throat irritations. Rosemary is a nice aromatic addition to the pipe, as is crushed allspice, and chervil. The chervil is often smoked alone when the tobacco habit is broken. Our cousin says he's heard for some time about a local wild shrub called Yerba Santa said to have been used by the California Indians long before the settlers came here. It's commonly known as Mountain Balm, Tarweed, and sometimes Consumptive's Weed because of its use by the early pioneers who made a medicinal brew of it. As a smoke, the leaves are supposed to be dried and crushed for use either as cigarettes or in a pipe. They say it's a good substitute for chewing tobacco, bitter tasting at first, but becoming sweet as it is chewed.

Another herb used by Indians and early settlers to add fragrance to their tobacco was Master-of-the-woods, a sweet smelling plant. Gensing root is named in one reference as a substitute for chewing tobacco by early Americans. Why call it a substitute? We doubt that it was such at all. They simply liked to chew gensing root for itself. Even sassafras root is named as a substitute for tobacco in one reference. We know that sassafras root is used for itself along by many Southern mountain and mid-western people in America, people who dig the root themselves and dry it to make a tonic for which they would not accept any substitute at all. We suspect there's a lot of fancy guess work about many such items set down as authority by people who came after . . . too long after . . . the herb's first users, and are too "furrin" to the natives who still use the plants to discover the truth.

Corn silk also is listed as a filler for cigarettes and pipes mixed with fragrant herbs. Our cousin tried every herb in the garden, first drying them in a slow oven. He recommends sumac leaves, red ones found on the ground beneath the tree, mixed with marjoram and a pinch of sage and rosemary. He says this is the nearest to a pleasant substitute for his regular tobacco that he has yet found. He went home quite cheered, taking a supply of leaves and herbs with him and the determination to convert some confirmed smokers among his friends to their use. It might work, but we won't be astonished if it does not. In our experience substitutes that resemble the original usually fail, and people who must have a substitute seldom accept it for long.

small museum, featuring oddities and rare pieces on display from museums, and will have a gun display.

A new 3-D Stereo juke box will be installed in the near future, and live music for dancing will be featured on Friday and Saturday nights.

Other plans for the future include an emergency gas pump, ice, a small grocery store with picnic and camping supplies and ammunition, and a wood yard with pre-bundled wood for camping.

Clark says they will cater to families, private and club parties, with courteous and congenial service and fair prices.

Barrelle House Charms New Owners

Very happy in their new home, the former Barrelle place on Holly Road, high on Victoria Hill, are Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mitchell, who recently purchased the property from the heirs, Mr. and Mrs. Weber, niece and nephew-in-law of the late Archibald Barrelle.

Mrs. Mitchell says they purchased the house partly furnished and is especially delighted to have been able to keep one of Mr. Barrelle's own creations, a beautiful hand carved table. Also left in the house are some very nice books and files of magazines.

The Mitchells, who are busy all day in their Alpine Convalescent Center, find the new home very restful and quiet. Says the new lady of the house, "We can hardly wait to get home after work in the evenings to enjoy the place." A lovely enclosed garden is one of the home's many charms. A picture window gives a breath-taking view of the mountains and beyond them a glimpse of San Diego bay on clear days.

The Mitchells took possession on June 17th and the Webbers left to return to their home in Maine the same day.

Winnetka Barbecue Huge Success

Approximately 70 guests enjoyed one of Winnetka Ranch's famous barbecues last Saturday evening. This barbecue was held mostly in honor of former Alpiners, Allen "Lefty" Wilson, and his family whose home is now in Emenclaw, Wash. The Wilsons have been busy this week visiting many of their old friends in Alpine.

The barbecue was hosted by Don and Olive Wooldridge, and Dr. and Mrs. Howard Ball.

A number of the guests (39) stayed overnight at the ranch and enjoyed a ranch-type breakfast on Sunday morning. They then enjoyed a tour of the ranch and seeing the new foals and fine thoroughbred horses being raised at Winnetka. They also saw Winnetka's first race horse, a two-year-old now racing at Hollywood Park.

The Darnells are doing the finish work themselves, and enjoying this creative activity very much. When Mr. Darnell returns in August they will continue the finishing job so that they may be moved in and all settled by Christmas.

Good to see Boyd Valdez, formerly of Lyons Valley, who dropped by to see the Ashbrooks, now living on "Happy Day Ranch." The Ashbrooks are expecting their son, Buddy, and his family to spend next weekend with them.

Meet more people at Jim Shorter's gas station down in Jamul from our community than you run across on the "Hill" itself!

Joe and "McDuff" Vallee, of Crow-Vallee Ranch, were up last weekend with a power mower cutting down the fire hazard.

With the advent of summer weather, the pool down at Barrett Lake Estates beckons in a delightfully refreshing manner.

It was good to see Jim and Doris Fouts again up on their place on Monte Robles Acres. Jim looked right up to snuff after his unfortunate accident a few weeks ago.

Talking about Monte Robles Acres, Dave Barnum and Bob Baxter are still going at their well hot and heavy with shovels, buckets, and dynamite—hope you hit "liquid gold" soon!

As for "El Tico," found out from two sources that it's a slang expression for a Costa Rican, but as to who or what it referred to in our Valley—Quien sabe?

Incidentally, we've got a celebrity in our midst up here in the Valley now . . . John H. Bye (of El Cajon), road construction superintendent with the County Honor Camps who has been in charge of the construction of our road for the past four years, was honored two weeks ago Tuesday by receiving the coveted "Employee of the Year" award jointly with Pauline Boone, of the County Registrar's office. The award is presented by the County Employees' Association. "Congratulations and a well-done" from all of us.

PINE VALLEY

By LADONNA MUHLHAUSER

Never underestimate the power of the press. A couple of weeks ago a small item appeared in the Alpine Echo under the Pine Valley heading telling about an elderly lady being taken to the County Hospital in serious condition. Frank Scully, an insurance man, read the article and immediately started the ball rolling and found she was well covered by hospitalization insurance. I'm most happy to report that Leeta Stewardson is now in a very good convalescent hospital and getting the very best of care.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Holbert had as their guests on Sunday, the Robert Wests, Ed DePues, Frank Harris's, William Rifes, Paul Browns and the Clyde Hagoods of Fort Worth, Texas. After an afternoon of fun and visiting, the group adjourned to the Hobart house for dinner.

The majority of the Hobart employees started on a deep sea fishing trip on Monday morning. Those who got up before breakfast were, Olive and Lon Wallace, Vickie Cartwright and young son, Dick Hersey, Bill and Mary Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy and we sure did get seasick, didn't we, Billie?

Mr. Cliff O'Marr is still under the weather and is in the Casa Blanca rest home on Madison avenue in El Cajon. He needs some cheering up, so drop in and visit with him. While he is away Mrs. O'Marr's sister Ethelyn Brown of Lawndale is visiting and Helen is looking forward to a visit from Edith and Harry Snyder this week.

Lois Roe went to Phoenix last week to return two of her grandchildren to their home, she reports a wonderful time till she started home and ran into a flash flood and now has to have some work done on the car. Lois had just been home a short time when son Jerry called to please come and get his daughter while the mother goes to the hospital for a new member for the Roe family.

Visited with the new managers of the Antler Lodge today and such wonders to behold, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Clark, formerly of Orlando, Florida, are really making many changes. It is being remodeled and cleaned up and they plan many new innovations for the Lodge. Mr. Chef Lee was head chef at the San Juan Hotel for over 17 years so has plenty of experience in food and friendliness. The San Juan is called the Convention Center of Orlando. They plan to specialize in good food and will do catering or take care of big parties for all occasions. The Clarks have three small children, Susan Lee, William Lee, and James Edward, also a teenage

Plans are really buzzing for the PTA bus trip scheduled for August 4. Donation for the all-day fund raising affair will be $6.50, which will cover transportation, and admissions to the famous Wax Museum, and a visit to Knotts Berry Farm. Any profit realized will go to help swell the PTA treasury for next year's activities. For reservation, call Betina Luck, Ways and Means chairman, at 444-1797. ### COKE'S KITCHEN

Boysenberries are plentiful right now! Fortunately, our kind neighbor shared her crop with us this week and we enjoyed a delicious cobbler. Try these recipes to keep your family happy, the cook and kitchen cool.

BOYSENBERRY COBBLER

3 cups fresh boysenberries
 3/4 cup water
 3/5 to 1 cup sugar
 1 T cornstarch
 2 T cold water
 1/4 cup plus 2 T cream or
 1/4 cup milk plus 2 T butter, melted
 1 cup Bisquick
 Heat oven to 400. Heat fruit and water. Stir in sugar. Dissolve cornstarch in 2 T cold water and blend into fruit. Boil 1 min. Pour into 2 qt. baking dish. Dot with butter; sprinkle with cinnamon. Mix cream and Bisquick thoroughly with fork. Drop dough by spoonfuls onto hot fruit. Bake about 20 min. Serve warm with cream.

 1 pt. fresh boysenberries
 Mix crumbs, 2 T of the confectioners sugar, and butter. Press into bottom and halfway up sides of 6 dessert dishes. Chill until firm. Make meringue by beating egg whites in granulated sugar, a little at a time. Beat until very stiff and glossy, about 5 min. Whip cream. Fold in remaining table-spoon confectioners sugar and vanilla. A cattleman, having received a huge beef check, bought a Rolls-Royce.

When he brought it back for servicing, the salesman asked if he was satisfied.

"Oh, yes," said the cattleman. "I especially like that glass partition between the front seat and the back." "Why?" asked the salesman. "Keeps the cows in the back seat," answered the cattleman.

ALPINE GARDENER

By JEAN McCULLOUGH

There's nothing like taking time by the forelock when it comes to preparing for the fall and winter vegetable garden. And, of course, the preparation of the soil is the first requirement.

You should start with a good supply of dairy manure, well rotted if possible. Spread this over your garden area four inches or so deep. Then have it plowed under so as to break up our cement-like soil.

Over part of the area you could also spread a nice amount of peat moss. But not over all as a lot of the root vegetables do not do well in the acid condition peat moss, or oak leaf mold creates.

If you begin this preparation while the weather is still hot, I would suggest a few sprinklings would be of benefit unless the manure you used was pretty well pulverized.

Keep your planting in square plots instead of long, single rows. Corn especially. They are much easier to water and the plants help to shade each other unless instruction on seed packets state otherwise.

Set aside an area for perennial

Area Births

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cheatham of Jamul, a daughter on July 7, at Grossmont Hospital, weighing 7 lbs., 5½ ounces.

Handy Household Hints

(For Harried Homemakers)

The tops of carrots, beets, turnips, and parsnips should be cut off before the vegetables are stored. Tops draw the moisture and food value from the roots, leaving them wilted and limp.

Know your onions and shed no tears. Next time you slice onions, spear a one-inch chunk of bread on the point of your paring knife before peeling. Bread absorbs those tear-jerking fumes.

Un-grate-ful carrots? You'll grate 'em without adding your fingers, too, if you leave at least one inch of the green tops on. Use it as a handle, and you can grate the vegetable with ease.

Want corn off the cob? It's a cinch, if you use a shoehorn, (of all things! — but it works). The wide end of the horn is just right for shearing the kernels off.

In a rush, and forgot to put the potatoes in the oven? Parboil them for about five minutes, drain and dry. They will then bake perfectly in just about half the usual time.

When you add tomatoes to your salad, do so at the last minute, so they won't thin the dressing. Also, cut them in vertical slices, the way the French do. It keeps much more juice in.

To keep lemons for months, after you buy them at a bargain, put the whole lemons into sterilized canning jars, cover with cold water, adjust rubber rings, and screw covers down tightly. Not only will they stay fresh for months, they'll yield much more juice than when you first bought them.

plants—artichokes, rhubarb and asparagus. Use generous amounts of fertilizer and peat moss and spade in deeply. These plants will not be on the market for some time, of course, but it is well to do this preparation well ahead of time.

While planning a garden, don't neglect a section for herbs, a great many of which are perennial, too, which is very important. Such herbs as sage, thyme, marjoram, summer savory, rosemary, English lavender and others. For what would cooking be without some, or most, of these flavors, and they all come from the garden. Best of luck.

Atonement Lutheran Church, next to Art's Lumber Yard, Campo Rd., Spring Valley, will hold Vacation Bible School from Aug. 10 through 21. Classes will be 9 to 11:30 a.m., Monday through Friday. Mrs. Mary Troesch, Proctor Valley Rd., 469-5931, will be one of the teachers, and her son John, president of the youth group, the Walther League, will be a helper. All parents are invited to send their children to this worthwhile activity.

John Troesch attended the Walther League's potluck beach party at the Silver Strand Sunday from 3 to 10 p.m. Proceeds from the group's carwash last month paid for the hamburgers and buns.

Sharon Egan spent the weekend at Ginny Luzak's home in Spring Valley. They attended "Mad, Mad World," also did some swimming and visited Old Town. There they visited the Candle Shop and the Flea Market, viewing TV's Shane's art exhibit and enjoyed discussing it with him.

Sunday evening I drove out with Mary Egan and her children to say goodbye to their very good friend, Willie Eaton of Ranchita Dulce in Dulzura. Her husband Theron is on a fishing trip. We went through her rabbitry and noted Theron's ingenious features added to both rabbitry and house for livability.

By PETER ODENS

Phoenix, Arizona—It was a fine day in St. Louis, Mo. in the early 1880's. Conductor James Addison Reavis slammed hard on the brakes and his street car stopped just in time for a mother and her two daughters to cross the street unharmed. Reavis wiped the perspiration off his forehead—he had been daydreaming, a favorite pastime of his. The following day, he was called to the superintendent's office and severely reprimanded as a complaint had been filed against him. Reavis lost his temper, told the superintendent that he was the Baron of Arizona and did not have to take such gaff, and quit.

The time had come for him to act and put the foundations under his daydreams. He had worked it all out carefully. Looking into historical books, he felt that somewhere in the past, there should have been an occasion for a land grant which would make him, James Addison Reavis, a rich man, if the affair was properly handled. A good Spanish name was needed, say, Peralta. If he could prove that there had been such a grant and that he was a Peralta or had a right to the grant, he would become a rich landowner—the Baron of Arizona.

He had planned several steps. He would have to forge a paper showing the land grant, get it backed by church documents, and prove that he was a Peralta. He first went to Santa Fe, New Mexico and obtained employment in the land office. There, he faked a document according to which King Ferdinand VI of Spain, in 1748, had ordered the viceroy in Mexico City to grant Don Miguel Peralta de Cordova some 2000 square miles of land in the very heart of what is today Arizona. Next, Reavis traveled to Mexico and Spain. He faked more documents in Mexico and made photographic copies of these papers, purported to have been filed in the Mexican archives. He disguised himself as a monk and gained access to a monastery where another document could be found, altered and stolen which seemed to bear out the grant. Next, he married a Mexican-Indian girl whose ancestry, he later claimed, was that of a Peralta.

Some last minute work had to be done. Traveling deep into Arizona, Reavis built monuments on the four corners of the purported land grant which embraced the area around Phoenix, the agricultural lands of the Salt river and the rich mining areas of Globe. Then, he broked the markers down tect their pets," Dr. Askew said. He pointed out that San Diego County has been declared a Rabies Area by the State Department of Public Health and that all dogs in the county over four months of age are required to be vaccinated against rabies if a vaccination has not been given in the past two years. All dogs in the county are also required to be confined to the premises of their owner or be kept on a leash at all times.

to give them the appearance of being very old. Now, everything was in readiness.

One day, the Baron James Madison Reavis—Peralta and his wife, the heiress to the Peralta fortune, showed up in Arizona, traveling in grand style. Producing the forged documents, Reavis announced that he was the rightful owner to the territory on which so many settlers had begun to build up a new life for themselves. Telling them that they were trespassing on his property, he asked that they pay a tax to him.

The miners and ranchers were puzzled and angered, but his proof seemed irrefutable and slowly, money began to flow into Reavis' coffers. He built huge mansions and gave big parties, but since he was riding roughshod over the feeling of those who had made Arizona hospitable, he and his wife remained social outcasts.

Moreover, there were several men who felt that there was something wrong with his story. No word of a Peralta Grant of Gila Lands could be found in any books, articles or diaries written in or about Arizona. One Peter T. Brady of Florence eventually instituted an investigation, but Reavis had prepared his case too carefully and nothing came out of it.

Finally in 1895, the anti-Reavis forces had their break. A printer in Florence who had in his possession one of the so-called original documents which Reavis had produced in proof of his claims, held it up against a strong light and noticed a water mark. Reavis had asserted that the document had been written 150 years ago, but the printer well knew that no such mark had been in use at that time. Once again, Reavis was hauled into court and this time there was no escape. He was convicted of forgery and fraud and sentenced to six years in Santa Fe penitentiary.

He did not serve his entire sentence, however, but was pardoned for good behavior. But when he was released, he was a broken man. All his nerve, his energy, had gone out of him. He lived just a little longer and died, a lonely person whom nobody took seriously any longer.

Director for the Chamber, assisted by several Chamber members. Norman Foster is again the Horse Show Manager, responsible for recommending the classes held, and for the conduct of the show. This will be the third year that Mr. Foster has managed this event.

Mrs. Katherine Black, member of the Show Committee, was responsible for the horse show badges being offered for sale at the Chamber office and the various business establishments in Alpine. The badges cost 25 cents and serve the purpose of advertising the Alpine Viejas Horse Show. Mrs. Black was assisted by Erna Earle and Elva Shankman in making the badges, with Mrs. Earle responsible for most of the printing on all these badges.

All indications are that this Third Annual Alpine Viejas Days Horse Show will draw larger entries and more spectators than either of the preceding two shows. No admission is charged to spectators. Prize lists for entering horses may be obtained at the Chamber office on Highway 80. However, all classes can be entered on the days of the show.

Ran into an interesting story the other day concerning the Good Father Keller of the Jacumba and Campo Catholic Church. It seems Father Keller has been saving green stamps in hopes of getting enough to obtain a small chord organ for the Jacumba Church. About six weeks ago he received a call from Father Ullman who is now in Elsinore, telling him that when Mrs. Jessie Lamb passed away she requested that her Hammond Organ be given to Father Ullman's Church, since he had one he in turn gave it to the Jacumba Church, of which he is past pastor.

The vote on the complete unification of the district was 6 votes for and 16 votes against. The vote for the four-way plan which was adopted was 13 for and 9 against.

The Committee, in order to comply with the State law, will immediately forward their recommendation to the State in the hope that it will be considered at their September meeting. If the State Committee disapproves, it will give its reasons, and the districts will then have to reconsider and submit a new recommendation. If the State approves, an election will then be held within the Grossmont

District. If an election is held in December, and a majority of the voters in each district approve the unification will take place commencing July 1, 1965. If a majority of the voters in any of the districts disapproves, they will remain in their present status and the balance of the districts will be unified.

The Committee recommended the four-way unification even though the State Committee has disapproved similar plans of unification of the elementary districts within other high school districts in San Diego County and other parts of the State.

thorough search of all places that could be opened. The money and stamps were in a safe which had not been tampered with.

The Sheriff proceeded to search for possible clues and Postmaster Hall immediately started the inventory to find out what, if anything, was missing. He found that the only article that was on their inventory that could not be accounted for was a small paring knife which was used in the Post Office as a letter opener.

It was discovered that the drink dispensing machine at the Mobil Gas Station across the street from the Post Office had been pried open that same night, but the machine had been emptied by the service station attendants when they went off duty earlier in the evening.

Postmaster Hall assumes that the entering of the Post Office and the prying apart of the drink dispenser must have occurred between the time the Mobil Station closed for the night and 1:30 when the Post Office entry was discovered.

The Sheriff has made no report regarding clues and suspects.
