Ronske is a retired dairyman from Villa Park, Ill., (Elmhurst) where his two brothers are carrying on with their Cloverleaf Dairy in Addison. The Ronskes have lived here a year, coming to Alpine through having visited their daughter in SD 2 years ago, and wanted to be near her.

My girl looks like a million dollars, all wrinkled and green.

COUNTY HORSE BUSINESS IS GROWING INDUSTRY

Some years ago we predicted that Alpine would someday be like Northridge, in upper San Fernando Valley where Hollywood greats and a lot of wealthy folks live and enjoy horses.

Alpine is fast assuming that type of a community for it has two of the county's 40 riding clubs, the Alpine Riding Club and the Pequeno Riders, for youngsters. Memberships go from 25 up to 250 and over. Each weekend there are several horseshows with good attendance from the horsey set.

Many fine breeds are raised in this climatically suitable spot, including the famous Arabian Horse Ranch of Harry Harness on Hawley Road, just below Dunbar Interchange. Till the passing of E. L. Freeland, Alpine had a noted stable where appaloosas were raised and entered in nationally famous shows, winning prizes galore.

Lots of families with children came here to make their home where horses may be kept and enjoyed by the small fry and their elders. Realty folks say many today are looking for land and homes in this lovely community.

George Carrell who runs a busy feed store here says the horse population is increasing and that business in the back country is going ahead steadily. He and his wife are expert riders, too.

Our county is the home of the world's largest horseshow at the fair in Del Mar. We also have the National Pinto Association, and other organizations having to do with horse breeding. It is said that the horse population is now 25 times greater than when the animal was used in transportation.

Way back in 1920 they started the Coronado Horseshow with society's top-flights present, coming to compete in the many events. Today they plan a training place for horses, and a jockey school for the racing field. An English riding school is said to be on the drawing board, and other facilities to feature horses and shows.

There are some 40 feed stores, trophy firms--Norbob Trophy Co., being in Alpine--western outfitters--also one here, Alpine Western Wear--plus veterinarian hospitals, doctors and suppliers. Carl's Leather & Boots in EC, handles many items and serves the whole back country. Another phase which runs into real money is the trailer business, many fine custom trailers being built in this area.

What Alpine should do now is to make a big project of riding trails in and around the community to link up with the famous California Riding and Hiking Trail which goes right through here. Let's saddle up! - CI

This is the way motorists coming into Alpine from the east will see it at the Willows Interchange where this bridge over the freeway is complete. In distance is Honey Hill. Bridge will give access to Hwy 80--to be called Alpine Blvd.-- and properties south of new US8 route, including Smiley's Motel and his hobby shop.

WORK STARTS ON NEW FREEWAY

Bulldozers and heavy land-moving equipment are busy on getting under-way construction of the next phase of US8, extension of the freeway from Willows Road.

SNOW DELAYS VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Milton, they are the parents of Mrs. John Smith, Tavern Road, left for Florida Dec. 4 to spend the winter there. They were pulling a trailer when they hit a storm in Yuma, got snowed in. They own a home on Martinez Lake, just out of town, so spent several days there waiting for it to clear. They drove on to Flagstaff only to get 9 inches of the white stuff, which prevented them going on. This delay over the holidays was nice because their daughter and family drove over to spend New Year.

They left Arizona Jan. 2, met another snowstorm in Las Cruces which kept them there two more days. Another delay on account of weather was encountered in Houston, so the Miltons are now planning to spend a nice, quiet spring in Florida.

A letter to Mrs. Smith this week told of much nicer days but what started to be a quick trip, lasted over a month and Mrs. Milton said they hoped to be in So. Carolina this week, depending on the weather, of course.

Fast progress is being made on 2-lane bridge for westbound traffic on new freeway at Willows Interchange. This looks west, shows bridge abutments and piers. On left is present bridge which will later be enlarged for 2 eastbound lanes.

MRS. EVERS INJURES BACK

Last Friday while chopping wood, Mrs. Shirley Evers, Olivewood Lane, seriously injured her back. She is in EC Valley Hospital in traction, will be there another week or two, depending upon improvement.

The accident happened Jan. 12th at 9 a. m. when husband Bob and two daughters had gone. She struggled to the phone and called the sheriff who very kindly took her to the hospital. Tests indicate other injuries, but until her back improves, doctors cannot investigate.

She is in room 402 in case friends care to drop her a line or stop by during visiting hours which are 2 to 8 daily.

HORSE TALK

By Cynthia Irvine McTaggart

Alpine's horse population was increased by one Saturday morning when Doris Scully's mare presented them with a buckskin horse colt. He arrived sometime early Saturday morning and when they got up and went outside, there he was already up and eating. Haven't been over to see him but will probably go this weekend. Doris and her family are quite thrilled over the event as they did not know the mare was in foal when they bought her.

Lisa Pierce called me the other day and said that she has two nice saddles for sale and two bits. If you are in the market for either give her a ring or go over after school when she is home and look at them. Her number is 445-2011.

Susie Parson's dad was out riding her horse Lolita last week when something spooked her and he went off. He got bruised but luckily no broken bones, and on top of that the horse took off so he had to chase her.

I heard that Melva Riley was out looking for a place to keep her horses. She has them boarded out in Fallbrook and it makes it hard to keep in touch so both she and Ron hope to find a ranch where they can have room for horses.

Beautiful Morgan gelding who just last week arrived at the Webb Ranch. Jerry plans to start training 5 year old as soon as he gets acquainted.

Eileen Dun's sister Peggy Moran still have the throughbred mare for sale and also a shetland pony they bought for Ramon's birthday. He doesn't like horses and never rides the pony so they are going to sell him. Contact Eileen if you are interested in either one.

Alpine Riding Club is still sponsoring lessons at the YC ring every Sunday. Wilma Peters is instructor and although a small fee is asked, the public is invited to participate.

Alpine Weather Records

Climate, Temperature and Rainfall

Prepared by C. Robert Elford

Weather Bureau Office, San Francisco, California.

Presented as a Public Service by the Alpine Sun

CLIMATE OF ALPINE, CALIFORNIA

Alpine is about 25 miles from the ocean in hilly country sloping gradually upward to the east. The elevation ranges from around 1400 to 2000 feet. Viejas Mountain, 4224 feet, rises about 5 miles northeast of the city. The crest of the mountains, around 6000 feet, is 15 to 20 miles farther east. El Capitan reservoir is about 5 miles northwest and 1000 feet lower.

The southerly latitude of Alpine, combined with its relative proximity to the ocean, results in an equable temperature regime. The average maximum during July, the warmest month, is just over 90°, while the average minimum during January, the coldest month is about 37°. High temperatures during the summer, however, occasionally reach well above 100°, a record 110° having been recorded in September, 1955. Even in winter it is possible to have maximums in the 80s. Readings of 90° or higher have been recorded 60 days per year, on the average. The minimum has dropped to as low as 18° in January of 1937, and sub-freezing temperatures have been reported at one time or another during each month from October through April. On the average there are 27 days per year with temperatures of 32° or below. There have been occasions when extreme temperature conditions have persisted for long periods. In July, 1959, for example, the maximum reached 90° or higher on 28 days. At the other extreme was January, 1937, when freezing temperatures were recorded on 22 days.

The average annual precipitation amounts to 19.82 inches, but only 0.38 inch of this falls during the months of June, July, and August. More than 16 inches falls from December through April. A total of more than 6 inches of rainfall in a 24-hour period has been reported. This fell within a 13-hour period, and consideration of other available data indicates that amounts up to 7.50 inches in 24 hours might be expected as often as once in 100 years. Snow is infrequent, although it has been reported on several occasions. Hail falls at times in connection with thundershowers.

Clear skies are the rule during much of the year. Averages show about 254 days to be clear, 51 partly cloudy, and only 60 cloudy.

While relative humidity records are not available, a study of other nearby reports would suggest that readings

Please see back page.

STATION HISTORY

The first Weather Bureau records for Alpine were taken between February 1, 1935, and August 31, 1945, by Harold L. Flegal, at his vineyard about  $\frac{1}{2}$  mile southwest of the post-office. The elevation was given as 1900. The instruments for this station were furnished by the Chamber of Commerce. The more recent data used in this summary were obtained from a point  $\frac{1}{2}$  mile west of the post-office at an elevation of 1700. The records at this location were started on October 2, 1952, by Ernest W. Wright and were continued to December 1958. Here the shelter was still the property of the Chamber of Commerce, but the thermometers and rain gage were furnished by the Weather Bureau.

Beginning in December 1958 the station has been operated by the Fire Department, with Robert Fey as the observer. The location is  $\frac{1}{2}$  mile west of the postoffice at an elevation of 1735 feet.

There are also records available from two other locations in the area. From May 1951 to Oct. 1952 observers were H.E. Aston and Marion C. Aston. Their station was about 1.2 miles north northeast of the postoffice, at 2260 feet. R.E. Gastil took observations from January 1950 to May 1951, but we have no information concerning the location and exposure of this station. Because of the higher elevation of the Aston station and doubt about the location of Gastil's we have not included these records in this summary. The wisdom of combining the Flegal and Wright records might be debated, but it has been done in order to provide a long enough record to make a useful summary.

Most of the Alpine records have been published currently in the California section of the Weather Bureau's Climatological Data. The original manuscript copies, for the most part, are on file in the Weather Bureau Office in San Francisco.

More about Alpine Climate from Page One.

during the summer would drop into the 30's most afternoons and rise to the 60's at night. Winter readings are somewhat higher. Occasionally very dry conditions are reported when east and northeast winds prevail over southern California. These situations may develop at any time, dropping humidities to 10% or lower, but they are most likely during the late fall or early winter months.

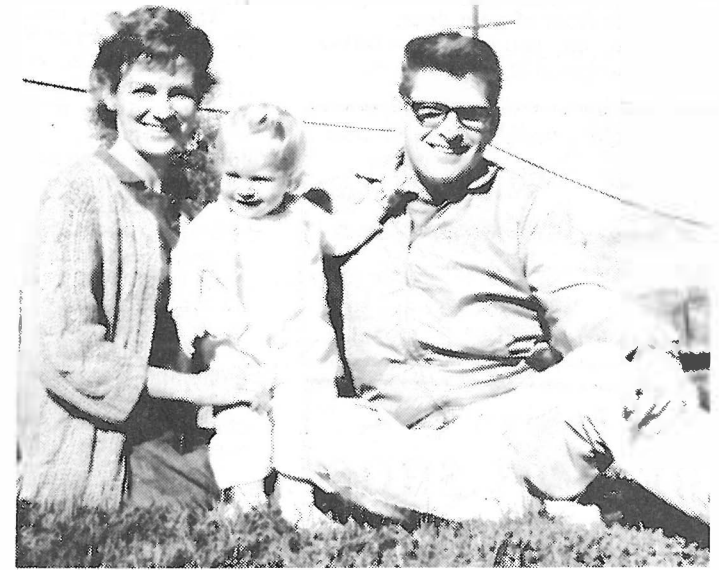

The prevailing wind direction is from the southwest, northwest and west winds are also quite common. While the average speed is probably quite light there may be occasional strong winds associated with thunderstorms or with the more widespread storms of winter. Also, the infrequent east winds may at times reach great enough speeds to cause slight local damage.

The last 32° temperature of the spring occurs early in April, on the average, while the first freezing temperature in the fall can be expected near the end of November, giving the average length of the growing season of about 235 days.

Visitors last Thursday to the Irvine Ranch were Tom and Peggy Gapin of Boston, with their first child, a real doll, Dawn Charmaine. Gapin is the genial manager of El Cajon Theatre whose popular assistant is Benny Benson, who by day is an officer on the EC police force. Gapins enjoyed watching the Sun going to press.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, Tavern Road, entertained Sylvia Abegglen of SD and her children last weekend. Sylvia is the daughter of Theodore Reser, former resident of Alpine.

NEW WEATHER SUMMARY OUT

Pierce Realty in LM orders 1000 each time, distributes it to help sell Alpine where Pierce has the beautiful Palo Verde Ranch subdivision. He is soon to start work on building a 290-unit housing project.

The Sun wishes to thank Weathermen A.W. Anderson, and Robt. Fey, local recorder of Alpine's fine climate, for their cooperation. If you wish reprints, call 445-2415.

This Sunday, Jan. 21, begins the 53rd anniversary of Kiwanis International, reports Leo Ryan, secretary of the local club. Its history is being written daily by thousands of men, who voluntarily, contribute time, talent and resources for the benefit of their fellow citizens and community.

"With constant effort, dedication to principle, and a desire to meet all challenges, Kiwanis International will continue to provide an avenue, leading toward that brighter day when men in every corner of the globe will abide by the Golden Rule, and live in harmony and brotherhood," he says.

During 1968, each Kiwanian is challenged: "Be a builder - get personally involved".

The Rabies Clinic last Wednesday night was unbelievable. It didn't open till 7 but the line started around 5:30 and didn't let up till way after 8:30. People came down from Julian and Jacumba and we have never seen so many dogs in one place. Mama had to take Andy over and also get the license tags for Coco, and Cynthia's dog Chris.

Sure had a thrill when I came home Thursday. I rushed over to see Cynthia's baby and discovered she had some eye lashes growing in. They are black and she is also getting a few eyebrows. I got to hold her and only wish I could see more of her. She is a real cutie.

We haven't had any letters from our cousin Kenny Tielens since he arrived in Viet Nam Christmas day but his mother has, so know he is all-right. He volunteered for helicopter duty and has been to busy to write because of the activity there.

David Beach has been home on leave from Naval boot camp, will return for more training before he is sent to Viet Nam.

Marion Bell is working at Bailey's Cafe on weekends. She worked all d during Christmas vacation and loves her job.

Raymond Rix gets the cast off his hand in two more weeks. He broke a few bones in his hand when his Datsun was smashed into while he was turning into Rocket Station two weeks ago.

Little Theresa and Pat Brotherton came by Monday to see if we had seen their gray and white cat. He wandered off and they hunted all afternoon but couldn't find a trace of him. They are looking for another kitten so if you have one to give away, give them a call.

BIG NIGHT FOR BUD PHILLIPS

Friday saw a busy evening at the cafe, 13505 Old Hwy 80 when Bud Phillips put on a get-acquainted barbecue with patrons from all around the inland empire. Helping him in the kitchen were Denver and Margaret Wheeler, Bud at left and Louise Chappell peeking out behind Denver.

The Wheelers are well known in Alpine, as she was checker at Florence's Market for some time and Denver ran the Rocket Station, later going to El Cajon.

"I want to thank all the folks who came to our party" says Bud, "but as the license must wait a month, we will have to be closed till around Feb. 15". He plans to operate the place as a club.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim King, Trailer Estates, drove to Salton Sea Sunday to see their property, were amazed at the growth of Salton City. A school is only 2 blocks from their lot with lots of activity there, they say.

STARCH SEARCH FOR MISS ALPINE

At the Wednesday night chamber of commerce meeting it was decided to have a contest to select Miss Alpine, a teenager to reign over its annual Viejas Days. Nikki's will give as one prize a year's supply of wardrobe.

My boss told me I oughta go places. In fact he even mentioned one of the places.

LILLIAN OLIVER

Funeral was Thursday last week in Erickson-Anderson Mortuary, LM, with burial in Ft. Rosecrans National Cemetery for Lillian M. Oliver, former Alpine librarian who died on the Monday at her home, 8062 Culowee St. in La Mesa.

She was a county resident for 60 years, had been principal and superintendent of South Bay School District. She was a member, American Penwomen, and wrote poetry, played the accordian and took part in many civic activities. She is well remembered in Alpine where for several years she was librarian, following Bea La Force, was relieved by the present librarian, Mrs. Elizabeth West.

Survivor: a brother, Milton Beusch, Chehalis, Wash.

Mrs. Oliver was a subscriber for the Sun all the time she was here, kept it up till her death as she said "I love to read the little paper and know what's going on up there as I love your people so much and I enjoyed my stay at the library".

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Connelly are back from a months visit to Waco, Texas where they went to visit their daughter Catherine, her husband T/sgt. Gene Startin and two daughters Patricia, 20 and Muriel Lynn, 17. They spent Christmas and New Years with them and enjoyed their stay except for the exceptionally cold weather Texas had during the holidays. Both say "we are glad to be back home in Alpine."

Annually 11 million postals are sold of the Statue of Liberty in NY harbor, the No. 1 largest postal seller in America. Runner up is the Grand Canyon.

Movie patron at Chinese movie:

"Usher, I smell punk"

Usher: "That's ok. I won't seat anyone near you."

JULIE MARIE GREETS GRAMPS

Alpine now has a real flying grandfather, Editor Irvine, who holds Cynthia's first child, Julie Marie, born Dec. 23. This is first time they look into each other's eyes, while Cynthia in photo on mantle smiles at both! Aunt Celeste's photo is at right.

OSTRANDER HEADS LIGHT PROJECT

Robt. Ostrander was named chairman of the chamber of commerce's lighting committee at its Wednesday night session, will go ahead with plans for starting a lighting district in the business area.

My Uncle knew a month before his death the exact date he was going to die.

Did a fortune teller tell him?
No. The judge told him.

CARE OF THE BODY

By Frances McTaggart

EAT LESS, LIVE LONGER

For some time it has been known that the less one eats the longer he tends to live.

In fact during World War I the Carnegie Institute conducted a typical experiment that proved much along these lines. A group of healthy young men a number being athletes, were kept for months on a diet of spare proportions that reduced them to 10% below the weight which they had maintained on an ordinary full diet, though none had ever been really fat.

They were, therefore, brought into about the same physical condition as the spare and wiry elderly men of the type who live the longest. To do this required a reduction of about a third of their accustomed amount of food. On this more meager diet there was no evidence of loss of physical power.

Many elaborate studies and measurements were made without showing any marked physical changes, with one exception. This was that in every case there was a marked decrease in pulse, accompanied by a drop in blood-pressure. In short, the most invariable and the most striking effect of a spare diet is that of decreasing the work of the heart and the circulatory system. Obviously this decrease, together with the lessened amount of waste to be excreted from the blood, also puts less work on the kidneys, those important organs of elimination which break down so early in many lives.

The moral to be drawn from the above, is that man should eat less, and less, to conserve energy-- and life.
