While doing our shopping the other eve we felt a little tug at the seam of our trouser leg as I am sure most of you have at one time or another. It seems we were wearing the same kind of trousers as this young fellow's father(or mother) and he had latched on by mistake.

I am sure most of you have seen the look of shock and surprise mingled with just a little fear when the little feller sees his parent has strolled down the aisle and left him all alone in the cold cruel world of the super market.

This set us to thinking just what a child's works is in a food emporium with all of its chrome, glass, mirrors and funny smells and the answer makes us glad we are grown up.

Aside from having to look at the bottoms of counters, market baskets and in this day of the mini-skirt, some other bottoms best not mentioned in this gruesome tome, he must also gaze around at a world of knees.

Now there are many kinds of knees such as knobby knees fat knees, knock knees, skinny knees and too many others to list herein but they all have one thing in common.

If you will take a real close look, just about the only place you will find a pretty knee is in a song or a poem or a Mickey Spillane book because by the very nature of this useful hinge the skin must be a little wrinkled when the leg is straight.

You are probably saying to yourself "what is this nut getting at?" Okay, so I will tell you. I am starting an organization called AFBUKATADA. So you are wondering what the initials stand for? Okay I'll tell you, Association for Beautifying Ugly Knees to Amuse Tots and Assorted Depraved Adults.

All you Ladies (and men who wear shorts) have to do to become members is to sit down with your lipstick and mascara, and paint funny little faces on your ugly knees before you go shopping. Isn't this a small thing to do to keep the kiddies amused?

While on the subject of kiddies it reminds us of one that was sitting on the curb and crying his little heart out. This outbreak of raw emotion caused us to stop to find out what terrible thing had happened to him.

It seems he was crying because he couldn't do what the big boys were doing so we just sat down and cried with him for a spell. Have you ever heard you progeny discussing a question that seems to come up quite often when they are working on their American History about which is the most precious freedom, which one would they choose? If they are stumped or otherwise reluctant to make a choice let us help you. How about "FREEDOM OF CHOICE?"

We think this one touches all the bases.

We will close with this classy bit of dialogue we overheard on the downwind side of the dairy.

He: Do you know how to keep a Communist from drowning?

She: No.

He: Good.

LARRY BECKWITH

Tony is a happy and friendly 11-month-old boy of average build. His hair is blond and he has brown eyes and fair skin. His weight gain was slow for the first month due to blood transfusions shortly after birth but he's now a healthy 20 1/2 pound boy. He's beginning to eat soft foods from the table but makes a funny face when you offer him juice to drink. He has learned to say "bye" and "Da;" and his favorite games are peek-a-boo and clapping to music.

Tony is a sociable youngster who could easily move into a permanent family.

Boys Tony's age and older are available because there have not been enough homes available. Families interested in adoption may obtain information from Adoption Services of San Diego County - 234-8871.

MRS. TERRELL LANHAM, ADOPTIVE MOTHER OF THE YEAR SHOWN AT THE LAKESIDE NEWS BOOTH AT THE LAKESIDE FAIR WITH FOSTER BABY, 'TAMMY.' (Staff Photo)

MOTHER OF THE YEAR SELECTED

Mrs. Terrell Lanham, mother of four adopted children, has been named Adoptive Mother of the Year by Adoption Services of San Diego County, the agency which placed the children.

Mrs. Lanham was honored on Tuesday afternoon in ceremonies commemorating Mother's Day in the County Administration Center by Homer E. Detrich, director of the Department of Public Welfare.

Mrs. Lanham who lives at 719 El Rancho Rd. in El Cajon was accompanied by her husband James, Robert five, Lee Ann four, Christin two and Scott 10 months.

Detrich in making the award to Mrs. Lanham congratulated her as representing nearly 500 mothers who adopted children during the past year through Adoption Services of San Diego County.

Mrs. Lanham said she had looked forward to being a mother from the time she was in her teens. When she and her husband were unable to have children, they discussed adoption. Six months after their first application, Robert was placed with them. About every one and on half years since then they have reapplied and received a child in from two to six months. Mrs. Lanham is sure she feels the same toward her children as any mother does.

The Lanhams are strong advocates of adoption. They believe in telling their children about being adopted and have expanded the information as the children have grown. They highly recommend adoption and suggest that anyone interested call the Agency for information.

Heritage Plan Out

This release was received by the Town and Country News, Saturday, May 6, 1967.

"The investigating committee of 'Heritage Alpine Housing' has been examining for four months the possibilities of this project. After assessing the articles of incorporation and the by-laws presented to them last week, the committee has come to the conclusion that certain restrictions and clauses were not satisfactory or in the best interest of the community.

"However, as was ascertained at the meeting of Monday, April 27, there is still the possibility of setting up a non-profit corporation of local citizens for this kind of low cost housing under local direction, if the community wishes and is willing to work at.

"The present committee, having accomplished its purpose will disband. The committee will keep all records of correspondence and minutes of activities so far and will be glad to answer any questions."

EDITOR'S NOTE

How do you apologize for being sick? Somehow, it doesn't seem as though it would be necessary. However, since a few irate readers called to tell us that there wasn't much news last week, among other complaints, perhaps we do owe an apology somewhere.

Illness (not too serious but confining) struck your editor and she was out of the picture for over a week. In spite of almost half the staff gone, a paper was published. Much credit goes to those who did the work and we are grateful to them.

We'll try not to get sick again real soon.

WILSON REPORTS

Would parents object to strenuously to their youngsters attending high school through the summer?

If they wouldn't, legislation establishing a two-year experimental year-round high school project in Oakland might be successful, and this could possibly lead to all high school students eventually attending full-time.

The bill establishing such a project has already won approval of the Assembly committee on education. It now goes to the lower house ways and means committee for consideration of estimated state costs of $154,000 to $164,000 for the two-year project.

The measure provides full state financing for the project which differs somewhat from a similar measure approved two years ago but never implemented.

Approval of the bill was voted by the committee on the basis that such projects are educationally sound. Financing aspects were considered to be the province of the ways and means committee.

Opposition to the measure came from the author of the 1965 legislation, who held that not only educational aspects but also financial feasibility of all year high school operation should be tested by the experiment.

He pointed out that in the attempted implementation of his 1965 bill by a high school district near Sacramento, the ability of the district to contribute a share of summer quarter costs had been tested and the district had failed to come through. As a consequence the experiment failed.

Other school districts are eyeing the project with interest.

Success will never come to the fellow who tries to make both week-ends meet.

Rhonda Foster Weds

Miss Rhonda Jinks Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Foster of 14806 El Monte Rd., Lakeside, recently became the bride of Richard Arnold Vesco, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Vesco, 9938 Buena Vista, San-tee.

The vows were said at the Community Presbyterian Church, Lakeside with the Rev. Theoderic Roberts performing the ceremony in a setting of daisies.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length silk organza gown with Chantilly lace appliques, a cathedral trail and a floor-length veil. She carried miniature yellow roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Mark Tyler, wore bright yellow gowns as did the bridesmaids; Buffy Roberts, Mrs. Coy Owens and Mrs. Merton Thomas. All wore daisies in their hair and carried baskets of daisies.

Best man was Mark Tyler while the groom's other attendants were his brothers, Charles and Don, along with Richard Beckman, John McCoy and Bob Lefler.

Following a honeymoon in Palm Springs, the young couple will be at home on El Monte Rd., in Lakeside.

HARBISON SCHOOL

The third and fourth grades of Harbison Canyon School's special training class visited the new San Diego air terminal on Monday, May 1st. They also went through a PSA Boeing 727 Jet, which was a "thrill."

Lunch in Balboa Park was the final treat in a delightful day.

Those ladies who accompanied the children were Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Clouse and Mrs. Laftis.

Room two. In Mrs. DeLong's room the following children won ribbons at the spring festival.

Tim Scarborough, one blue; Jennifer Boyd, one red and one green; Wendy Spurlock, two red; Charmaine Jennings, one red; Dris Weinschenk, one red; Olympia Leon, one green.

They are all very proud of these classmates. Nancy Morrison had a perfect paper on a five minute timed test in math. Our room also won the Courtesy Cup for being the most courteous room last month at Harbison Canyon School.

Harbison Canyon kindergartners went to the Mara-Khuran Dog Kennels on Dehesa Rd. in April. They saw Russian Wolf hounds, miniature Greyhounds, geese, cats, ducks, horses, cows and peacocks.

Mrs. Dennis Dzedzic explained all about the animals and Mr. Dzedzic had one of the Russian Wolf hounds doing special tricks. Mothers helping on the trip were Mrs. Weinschenk, Mrs. Armour and Mrs. Jungnitsch.

After the trip, each mother presided over a discussion table of kindergarten children for discussion of the kennel and for drawing pictures of what we most liked seeing at the kennels. Reporter, Debbie Daana

Sixth Grade. Thursday we had a visitor from Caracas, the capital of Venezuela. His name was Gustavo Galado.

He is part of the program American Foreign Exchange Service. Gustavo was born in Cuba. He left Cuba just after Fidel Castro took over in Cuba, which was in 1959.

Gustavo showed about twenty slides about Maracaibo and Caracas. He showed a picture of the five mile bridge which extends across Lake Maracaibo. Gustavo said that some of the lake is good fishing but part didn't have fish because of the oil in the water. Gustavo said that the oil derricks are located in the Southern part of the lake Reporter, Ronald Lawson

By RUTH FULLER

THE SMALL BOY down the road has been a frequent visitor lately — early in the morning before we go to work, he arrives at our door, rain or shine, and at first we were convinced the attraction was our charming personalities or perhaps he loved animals, but we soon discovered that a conflict at home over early morning television was responsible. There are two small sisters, fond of the cartoons on one local channel and our small guest is devoted to the other station and we, never having viewed either one, were perfect for his purpose.

"WHY," HE INQUIRED one morning while waiting for Roger Ramjet, "have you got such a lot of dogs? Do you like dogs?"

"YES, INDEED," I replied, "I do like dogs." One of the current crop of kittens was perched on his shoulder. "Do you like kittens, too?" I admitted that I was fond of kittens. "I like kittens," he said wistfully, "I like dogs. But I only got one cat and one dog at my house." I had one of my inspired moments: we could surely remedy that situation in a hurry, but Robert, on his way out the door, read my mind and shook his head warningly. "I've already tried that," he said, "no deal. And we must remain on good terms with the neighbors!"

"WHY DO YOU like so many dogs?" The small boy shifted to make room for another kitten.

"WHY, I REALLY don't know," I gazed about at my happy little brood; Mr. Sam and little George quarrelling over a bone, Molly and Sheba industriously chewing the arm of a chair, and Penny growling menacingly at her offspring. "Maybe a psychiatrist could figure it out."

"WHAT'S A PSY-PSY — what you said?" "A doctor, dear." "Oh, are you sick?" inquired my guest gazing at me in some trepidation. "Oh, no, no," I said hastily, "I was just thinking about a little dog I had when I was about your age . . ."

"YOU'RE OLD! WAS you ever little, like me?" This in obvious disbelief.

"YES, INDEED, AND I loved my little dog very much. I didn't have any brothers or sisters then, and my little dog and I played together all the time . . ."

"WISH I DIDN'T have any sisters," muttered my guest malevolently, "You was lucky. What was your doggie's name?"

HIS NAME WAS Jack, and after awhile we had to move to another state and we couldn't take Jack with us so we gave him to a farmer in the neighborhood who wanted a nice dog and the day we were to leave my mother gave me a dime to go to the grocery store and buy some candy and I remember it was a warm summer day, I was barefoot and I can actually feel that hot dirt on my toes . . . halfway home I heard Jack bark as he was being loaded on the farmer's truck and I cried all the rest of the way home and I remember saying "I didn't want that old dog anyway, while the tears streamed down my cheeks . . . I've often thought that maybe that childhood memory is what makes it so difficult to give up any dog now . . ."

"SH-SH-SH!" COMMANDED MY guest warningly. "Can't you see — ROGER RAMJET IS ON!"

SO MUCH FOR amateur psychiatry . . . you know, Roger Ramjet IS sort of funny, really!

Did you fly the flag April 23rd? I did, a gentle breeze kept it unfurled, standing bareheaded gazing up at it, it gave me a quiet thrill.

The words of the pledge ran through my mind, (one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all). Beautiful, beautiful words, how well do we try to live up to them? Do we discriminate against anyone? If not, then why do we have a race problem? We are responsible for the Lester Maddox's of this generation, we reward their cruel bigotry by electing them to offices of public trust (liberty, justice).

We ban prayers from our public schools (one nation under God). We try to dictate whether a person be allowed to grow a beard (naturally, he's a beatnik). I seem to have a faint recollection that our Saviour wore one as well as his twelve apostles. Oh, but of course, that was a few years before Mr. Gillette's time.

We play "footsie" with communist Russia, at the same time knowing that they are the real enemy, they are supplying Viet Nam with the means of killing our boys and prolonging the slaughter. These are some of the reasons why the youth of today are rebelling against conformity, the status quo or regimentation, their mode of dress, the beards, the long hair, these are all symbols of a different generation, there is nothing wrong with their sit ins, their love ins, this is their way of showing disapproval of our (adults) outlook, after all you must admit we haven't exactly made a howling success of domestic and world affairs, we fought two world wars to make the world safe for democracy. Who won? When will the lesson be learned? At the present time we are again being pussyfooted into World War III, if we have to fight. Let's be honest about it, give our boys 100% cooperation, warn the Soviets that we will destroy any and all means of supplying the Viet Cong with material of any kind, this warning should apply to any nation, this is the only kind of negotiation the communists understand; remember the Cuban blockade!

Let's not condemn our youth, let us make sense to them, and, who knows it may lead to mutual understanding.

Alpine schools may be justifiably proud of their achievements over the past few years.

In large part, this progress is due to the efforts of the present board of trustees and administrators. They are to be commended. The job is not finished. It never will be. Complacency and resting on past laurels are not conducive to continued progress. I wish to congratulate Charles Campbell and Fred Rushing on their reelection to the board of trustees. I also wish to urge them, their colleagues on the board, and their administrators to continue to press forward toward the very best educational programs attainable for our young citizens.

I would like to acknowledge indebtedness to those who supported me in the recent election as well as to all who voted, irrespective of their choice of candidates. At no other level does the local electorate have such direct say on such an important part of the democratic process as when they go to the polls to vote on educational matters. The size of the turnout on April 18th was good evidence that the citizens of Alpine take their civic responsibilities seriously. This is extremely important to the continuance of government "... of and by the people."

4-H NEWS

It seems just a few, short weeks ago that I received a notice in the mail that the first important meeting of the 4-H Farm Business Activity would be held in a few days. I showed a vague interest in the program and since I was being considered a possible member, off I went! At the first meeting we met our capable instructor, Mr. George Ramstead and our sponsor Mr. Beau Walker and our county leader Mr. Dave Henshaw. It sounded interesting so along with eleven other fellow 4-H members I turned in my enrollment card. I didn't know it then but I was in for one of the most active, vibrant, informing programs that I have ever been in.

At the second meeting we began with introductions including some pertinent facts on our varied backgrounds. We established ourselves as one friendly working unit and proceeded to acquaint ourselves with what we were to learn and do. We were each given a folder containing written material which would supplement our extensive field trips. Our field trips attending: Farm-City Week in San Diego, Calavo Cooperative, Prohoroff Poultry Farms, Weary River Ranch, P.C.A. banquet and business meeting.

San Diego Cooperative Poultry Association and the S. D. C. P. A. banquet and business meeting were all used as examples of the four major types of businesses which we studied. After each field trip a classroom presentation was usually scheduled to hear various personal critiques and to discuss as a group the business example we had just seen.

The businesses we talked and learned about were the Individual Business, the Partnership, the Corporation and the cooperative. We learned how each of these business forms operate and major advantages and drawbacks they had. We also learned of their working relationship to our environment.

Well, as I was saying it seems that in only a few short weeks I've learned and experience more valuable information than I thought possible. Among the practical things I learned was another very important point. That was how to make friends and keep them. I feel that this course has helped me in innumerable ways and I will be sorry to see it end, our final meeting being May 11th. At that time my fellow members and myself will take a final over all we have learned and our term papers will be turned in. After deciding the county winner his or her qualifications will be sent to Berkeley for competitions to determine California's State winner in the program.

In general I felt that the program is one of outstanding quality and all of those concerned showed an enthusiastic support for the activity.

It has been a truly rewarding year which is quickly drawing to a close and I am sorry to see it end but am very grateful for the knowledge I gained during the past year.

Editorial

The Heritage Housing Project, proposed for Alpine by outside promoters, headed by Carl C.M. Gregory, at this point, would seem to be dead. There remains the possibility that local representatives will continue to work for low rent housing for low-income people. This can be done through the Farmers Home Administration. Alpine should and will decide if this is what the town wants.

Once more, we as a newspaper, have been asked "not to publish" much more information concerning "Heritage Housing." We stand accused of stirring up trouble and are told that it would have been better had we said nothing. It seems the committee was about to disband anyway having seen through the scheme.

No doubt, members of that committee, outstanding in their desire to help Alpine, had done just that — had come to the conclusion that they wanted no part of "Gregory's gospel" as preached by the promoter who was to do so much for Alpine.

However, in view of the fact that they had seen through the scheme — why did they allow (on April 7) a news release to be printed which was almost totally untrue? This newspaper also received the release along with verbal statements, but did not publish the information because it would raise hopes of people who could use this housing and because this newspaper knew that the facts were distorted.

Had the committee either not sent out the release, or retracted it when it did appear, there would have been no Heritage Housing story on page on of the Town and Country News for April 20.

We are forced to ask those who decry our use of a factual story — is it RIGHT to publish something almost totally untrue, and WRONG to publish the TRUTH?

One bit of information, coming to us just last week may bring to light just the kind of scheme planned for Alpine. We quote from a brochure of "Heritage Acres of Apple Valley," P. O. Box 787, Apple Valley California. "Upon payment of a membership fee each person becomes fully covered by a most generous health and accident plan. This plan will be known as and administered by the 'HERITAGE BENEFIT SOCIETY.' The society will provide a burial plot and generous allowance for burial expenses in the event of demise." And there was much more. It is hard for us to believe that Alpiners could possibly look like such country bumpkins!

Hopefully, the next time a Pied Piper comes to our fair city, those that are approached will take whatever the scheme, to the only governing board we have the Chamber of Commerce. Perhaps much could have been avoided through this procedure.

SELF ANALYSIS QUIZ

How Correct Are Your Facts About Marriage?

A Quiz in 2 Parts

by Jane Sherrod Singer

PART II

It is very likely that no one thing is as commonly experienced and so little understood as marriage. Life's greatest experience is surrounded by an aura of superstition and misinformation. Here is a list of statements. Answer them TRUE or FALSE . . . and then check the answers as research now shows them to be.

- | | TRUE | FALSE |
|--|------|-------|
| 1. Showering the bridal couple with rice and the flower girl who strews the aisle with petals originated as ancient fertility rites. | () | () |
| 2. Approximately two-thirds of juvenile delinquents come from broken homes. | () | () |
| 3. When people are really in love, they want to do everything together. | () | () |
| 4. Most people have had at least one engagement before the one that led to marriage. | () | () |
| 5. If a mate has some harmless but annoying habits, he or she should be expected to correct them as proof of love. | () | () |
| 6. Most happily married couples knew each other for at least two years before marriage. | () | () |
| 7. Marriage rates are the highest during war years. | () | () |

Resident

- Happily married couples have fewer children than those who are mismatched. () ()
- Insanity and suicide rates of divorcees is higher than those of married people of the same age level. () ()
- The best way to keep your mate growing is to insist that he or she conform to the best standards of behaviour at all times. () ()

ANSWERS:

- TRUE. Both of these customs have come up through the centuries from pagan rites designed to insure a fruitful marriage.
- TRUE. These are facts based on court studies.
- FALSE. Couples want and need to break away from each other occasionally. As Kahlil Gibran, poet-philosopher, wrote: "Let there be spaces in your togetherness."
- TRUE. Everyone shops for a car, a house, clothing. The same is true for a mate.
- FALSE. People are entitled to harmless faults. An understanding mate will not attempt a remodeling job on his or her partner.
- TRUE. As in statement Number 4, one needs to know about one's partner before leaping into marriage.
- FALSE. Marriage rates increase during boom and post-war periods. During war years and periods of depression or reconstruction they decline.
- FALSE. Unhappy marriages produce fewer children.
- TRUE. It is hard, like the chicken and the egg, to know which comes first in these cases.
- FALSE. You married a human being, not a saint. No one can be perfect at all times. Pressure to be so may even cause personality problems.
