

San Diego County—one of the world's biodiversity hotspots!

COAST TO CACTUS:

The Canyoneer Trail Guide to San Diego Outdoors

Discover what it means to be a biodiversity hotspot:

- why San Diego County is home to so very many species,
- why these species are so critically threatened at this moment in history,
- and why it matters.

AND EXHIBIT OVERVIEW

of the new 8,000-square-foot permanent exhibit at the San Diego Natural History Museum

A hiking and field guide:

- 250 hikes with maps
- habitat symbols
- mileage, elevation gain/loss
- ratings of difficulty
- GPS directions to trailhead
- 525 species of plants, birds, mammals, reptiles
- and much, much more!

You are invited to attend this very special Program presented by Rochelle Lynn Gaudette, member of the San Diego Natural History Museum Canyoneers, as she explores the geology, ecology and biodiversity of San Diego County.
